ITALY THREATENS INVASION OF GREECE

British Warships Off Crete In Anticipation Of Any Italian Move

Official British Quarters Say That Britain "Stands By Her Guarantee To Greece Up To the Hilt"

By HOMER JENKS

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Aug. 23—British official quarters today authorized the statement that Britain "stands by her guarantee to Greece up to the hilt."

It was reaffirmed officially that if Greece were the victim of an unprovoked assault and resisted it, Britain would come to her assistance with all available armed forces.

Officials denied reports that British forces had occupied Corfu. They suggested that Italian propagandists had circulated the report. They said they had no confirmation of rumors of an Italian ultimatum to Greece to renounce her British guarantee.

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

ATHENS, Aug. 23—British and Italian war fleets were reported cruising off Crete today in anticipation of an Italian move against Greece.

The report was unconfirmed, but it was said that the interior ministry had received a report from the police chief of Cerigotto Island, 20 miles northwest of Crete, of an engagement between planes thought to be from Italian and British warships. The engagement was described as heavy and as having lasted for two hours.

King George, Gen. John Metaxas, who is minister for war, aviation and navy as well as premier; the under secretaries for foreign affairs, war aviation and navy, and Gen. Alenander Papagos, chief of the general staff, met for half an hour at the foreign office, starting at 2.30 a.m. today, and were understood to have discussed new Italian troop concentrations on the Albanian frontier of Greece.

The foreign office denied reports that Italy had made any demand on Greece to renounce the guarantee of its safety which Great Britain had given it.

There seemed some doubt such a demand would be made on the ground that now that Britain and Italy were at war, Britain would

ROME, Aug. 23. — A high Fascist source said today Italy would invade Greece if the British occupied any Greek islands.

"Italy is not going to let the British occupy any Greek islands," the source said. "If the British move into Greece we will do the same."

The comment was made in comment on rumors that Britain might occupy Crete and Corfu.

Today's War Moves

IN warfare when a long proclaimed major offensive suddenly halts with no objective reached, but with claims of great gains and few casualties, something fundamental must be wrong. A week ago today Hitler's air attack to annihilate Britain reached its climax with the emotionally heralded bombardment of London suburbs. The climax, however, has since become an anticlimax because the Germans have not followed through.

The newness of aerial warfare and the necessity for studying temporary results and unexpected obstacles do not explain adequately the present lull. Interruption of a week in following up an alleged defeat of the enemy comes near to confession that no defeat has been inflicted. If enemy casualties and damage have been three to four times those of the offensive, why the necessity for studying results before going ahead?

The fact that Germany has been compelled to postpone further air blitzkrieg offensives, if not actually abandoning them for the season, must be regarded as a defeat for

MORATORIUM ON FARM DEBTS TO BE CONSIDERED

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23—Premier John Bracken announced today a special meeting of Manitoba government members Aug. 30 to consider the possibility of declaring a general moratorium on farm debts, in an effort to meet the situation created by the inability of farmers to market more than a small part of their 1940 crop.

Preceding the caucus the cabinet together with representatives of opposition groups will discuss necessary legislation with the legislative counsel and the chairman of the debt adjustment board.

Whether or not a special session of the Manitoba legislature is called to draft the moratorium legislation, if it is considered necessary, depends on what steps are taken by the federal government, Premier Bracken stated.

Construction On Nitrate Plant In Alberta Started

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—Construction in Alberta of an $8,000,000 ammonium nitrate plant for the Dominion government has been started by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation, it was reported here today.

Consolidated Smelters is erecting the plant and will operate it for the Dominion government as an integral part of the government's explosives program, it is understood. This plant will be one of a group of new government-owned chemical plants providing essential materials to the government's two big new explosives plants in central Canada.

ESCAPED NAZI CHARMED WITH HIS TREATMENT

Courteous Canadians Give Him Rides, Loan, Maps and Directions

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Guenther Lorentz, the German prisoner who escaped from an internment camp in northern Ontario and got as far as Montreal before being picked up, thinks Canada is a "fine country," it was revealed here by officials today.

Questioned by police Guenther was the height of candor.

He said nobody on the outside helped him to get out of the camp, just a few friends inside.

When he got out he asked a man how to get to Toronto and was shown the Canadian system—thumbing.

He got several rides by this simple method and found his chauffers to be most friendly and agreeable.

Not having any money he asked a fellow he met if he could lend him $2.50.

"Sure thing," the man said, and fished right down in his pocket.

Herr Lorentz speaks with an accent but apparently no one was suspicious of him until he failed to produce his registration card. It is suggested that those on the lookout for him may have been confused by the report that he spoke perfect English.

When captured Lorentz had on his person a number of maps. He explained these simply. At a filling station he asked the attendant whether he could have some maps and the man said, "Sure."

Americans Held

VICHY, France, Aug. 23—Americans for the past week have found it practically impossible to get a permit to leave the German-occupied section of France, according to reports reaching Vichy Thursday.

Laguardia Likely War Secretary If F.D.R. Is Returned

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The World-Telegram said in a front page story today that associates of Mayor Laguardia of New York said privately today that the Mayor will be appointed United States secretary of war within a year if President Roosevelt is elected for a third term.

Japan's South Seas Expansion Program Awaits "Go" Signal

By CHARLES H. KLINE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HANOI, French Indo-China, Aug. 23.—Japan's avowed program of expansion in the South Seas is seen here as awaiting a "go" signal from Europe.

Businessmen and diplomats in the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China voice repeatedly their belief Japan will take no direct action unless Germany's assault upon Britain shows more success.

ARRANGE PARTITIONING

These sources contend Japan and Germany may arrange a partitioning in the Orient which would have to wait for preoccupation elsewhere of the western nations.

Secretly, Indo-China has been trying to persuade United States airplane builders to turn over about 200 planes originally ordered for France, but most sources admit small hope of any American military intervention.

Nevertheless, the Indies particularly have taken comfort in the continued presence of the U.S. fleet in Hawaii.

One of two areas, Indo-China is acknowledged to be far more susceptible to Japanese absorption because of her scanty troops.

One of the most persistent reports in Hanoi is that before Marshal Petain's French government at Vichy obtains a formal treaty with Germany, a Nazi delegation, travelling by way of Soviet Russia and China, will inspect Indo-China to determine its worth.

TOO VALUABLE

Informed Hanoi sources reason that if such is the case, the envoys would advise Hitler Indo-China is too valuable to give to Japan.

Tokyo's recall, among others, of the Japanese ambassador to France, Renzo Sawada, was taken here to imply there will be more delay and discussion between Japan and the Vichy government, and indirectly with Berlin, regarding Indo-China.

Meanwhile, this colony still is restricting trade with China, as provided in an agreement with Japan, and warily watching reports that General Chiang Kai-Shek is massing Chinese troops along the frontier.

Blazing British Guns Shoot Down Nazi Raiders In Pairs

Two German planes, flying in close formation over England, were potted together by the missiles of an English Spitfire plane or from a British anti-aircraft gun. At any rate, like two dead ducks, they fell to the beach within 10 feet of each other.

CONSCRIPTION ACTION URGED BY ROOSEVELT

President Makes Appeal For Speedy Defence Measure In Congress

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt today urged immediate enactment of the pending conscription bill. He said it was absolutely essential to build up an adequate national defense team.

The President's position was made clear at a press conference when he was asked about his attitude toward proposed amendments which would compel the army to depend on voluntary enlistments until Jan. 1 before beginning the compulsory service system.

The President went into a long discussion of the troop situation based on a report submitted to him by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Roosevelt said that the nation's defense required action within the next two weeks. He called attention to the fact that the bill was submitted on June 20 and it is now past Aug. 20 and that both house and senate are still talking about it.

MAN HELD FOR CITY MURDER AT SASKATOON

Joseph Moskowski, former Edmonton resident, was formerly charged with the murder of John Kelly, aged city widower, at Saskatoon Friday, it was announced by Insp. John Leslie, head of the detective department.

Moskowski was picked up by Saskatoon police Tuesday, as the result of a circular sent out by Edmonton police, giving a description of the former.

Kelly died in hospitla here about two weeks after being attacked in his home early one morning by a man who posed as a city meter reader.

Immediately following the arrest by Saskatoon police, Det. William McDonald, coroner's officer, left for Saskatoon to interrogate Moskowski. Laying of the murder charge followed interviews that Det. McDonald had with the suspect.

The arrest follows painstaking and unceasing investigation of Kelly's death by police officers under the direction of Det. Insp. Leslie. Moskowski will be returned here under R.C.M.P. guard, probably Saturday.

Prosecutions Are Pending Under Wheat Board Act

REGINA, Aug. 23—A series of prosecutions is pending against Western Canada farmers, banks and loan companies acting as mortgagers for selling grain in excess of the 5,000 bushel maximum quota set under the Canada Wheat Board act of 1939, it was learned today.

Four actions, all in the Liberty district, have already been started in Saskatchewan.

It is expected that still more will be undertaken in the south part of the province and in other parts of the West.

Myron C. Taylor Returning To U.S.

ROME, Aug. 23.—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal representative at the Vatican, left by plane today for a visit to the United States during which, his associates said, he would confer with the President on whether he should return to his post.

Big Channel Guns Do Little Damage Say Artillerymen

Bombardment Of No Military Significance Say Authorities, But Dover Civilians Are Evacuated As Precaution When Buildings Shaken

LONDON, Aug. 23—Military sources said today British guns had fired "a few rounds across the channel, at the German guns bombarding Dover from the French coast. These sources said the German bombardment would not make Dover untenable from a military point of view. They declined to say whether the British had fired from land or from the type of gunboat known as a monitor.

Naval sources said it would be extremely hard for battleships to silence German guns which offered comparatively small targets.

Military informants declared the German bombardment was "practice."

GUNS ON TRACKS

A military source said that the German guns were "about 12-inchers" and that the "Berthas" were mounted on railroad tracks, "brought up, fired and withdrawn."

A number of gun emplacements have been observed on the French coast between Calais and Boulogne, but this source said "a number of them may be dummies."

The bombardment did not appear to "usher in a new phase of the battle for Britain," this source said and added that "it certainly has some nuisance value, but beyond that I can see no great military value."

It was likely that the shelling would result in removal of some civilians from the coastal area.

The German guns concentrated their attack Thursday on Dover itself, smashing homes and other buildings and taking an undisclosed toll of lives.

SHIP ATTACKED BY RAIDER IN TASMAN SEA

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 23.—The 8,706-ton British steamship Turakina sent a radio from the Tasman sea Tuesday night saying she was being fired on by a raider, Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand announced today.

This was the first report of an attack on a British ship in those waters.

The message gave the ship's position but no later advice has been received from the vessel which was due at a New Zealand port last night.

All possible steps were taken by New Zealand naval and air forces to deal with the reported raider, the Prime Minister said.

The search is continuing.

ALBERTA - B.C. BARTER PLAN IS ADVOCATED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 23—A barter plan between British Columbia and Alberta involving surplus products of the two provinces was advocated today by Mayor Lyle Telford, following a conversation with Premier William Aberhart of Alberta.

Mayor Telford said the Alberta premier is considering such a scheme under which British Columbia's surplus fruit, fish and lumber could be bartered for Alberta's surplus grain.

The mayor said he would broach the subject at the autumn session of the British Columbia legislature.

Four West Edmonton Centres Still To Report Their Figures

With four West Edmonton registration stations still to report, total registration in the Edmonton East and West ridings totalled 72,523, it was revealed by returns made by Registrars J. H. Fulton and Joseph Driscoll Friday.

Edmonton West riding's total, with four polls still to be heard from, was 35,844, of which 15,018 were men and 17,628 women. A total of 3,198 single men and widowers between the ages of 19 and 45 were registered in this riding, according to the figures available.

TWO FROM COUNTRY

Returns have still to come from the provincial government, a large Edmonton business house and two country registration stations—Cherrydale and Yorkville [illegible].

It is anticipated that full returns will be in the hands of Registrar Joseph Driscoll by Friday evening.

A total of 36,679 citizens registered in the Edmonton East riding during the three days of national stocktaking and at the special polls set up for business and institutions with staffs of 100 or over, Registrar Fulton reported Friday morning. The figures are compiled by the registrar's staff

LONDON NIGHT RAIDS CAUSE SMALL DAMAGE

Nazis Increase Tempo Of Attack, But Kill No One In London

LONDON, Aug. 23. — German planes made "indiscriminate machine-gun attacks" on several areas in Britain today, the government announced. A statement said the attacks occurred during widely scattered raids by a small number of planes operating singly.

LONDON, Aug. 23—Germany again stepped up the pace of the battle of Britain today with an early morning bombing attack on three thickly-populated London suburbs, blasting homes and public buildings, but causing comparatively few casualties.

Although several private houses and apartment buildings were damaged, the police, after a mid-morning checkup, reported only a few people were injured, and none was killed.

However, two children, one three years old and the other seven, were killed about dawn when a German plane dropped six bombs in the residential area of a northeast coast English town. Other German planes were reported in the southeast in what appeared to be the fag-end of night operations.

CAFE DEMOLISHED

In the attack on a northeast coast town bombs demolished a cafe. Several persons who had sought refuge in the cellar were trapped under the debris.

One of the largest stores in the town was wrecked by a direct bomb hit. The hotel was damaged.

A direct hit demolished an empty motion picture theatre and an adjoining hall in a London area in this morning's German air raid.

A pub and a number of dwellings were damaged badly and flying glass caused a few casualties.

The air ministry and ministry of home security issued an early Friday communique which said:

"During last night there was some activity over this country by enemy aircraft operating singly or in small numbers.

"Bombs were dropped in a number of areas in South Wales and a town in east Scotland.

"Some bombs were dropped in districts on the outskirts of London. Damage was done to houses

Independent M.L.A.'s To Discuss Problem Harvest Financing

To discuss the present crop and harvest situation, and the problem of financing fall farm operations, Independent members of the Alberta legislature will hold a meeting Wednesday next at 10 a.m. in the committee rooms of the legislative buildings.

Notices of the meeting have been sent to all Independent M.L.A.'s by Ald. Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., M.L.A., acting secretary of the group.

Mr. Macdonald on Thursday wrote to Acting Premier Hon. Ernest Manning asking that a meeting be arranged for the Independent members with the cabinet and proposing that representatives of the Alberta Wheat Pool, United Grain Growers and other grain bodies be invited. He stated that the Independent members had definite proposals to make regarding the wheat emergency.

In reply Hon. Mr. Manning expressed appreciation of the willingness of the Independent group to co-operate with the government but asked that any specific proposals be submitted in writing. He added that they would receive prompt and careful consideration by the government.

Representations have been received from a number of farmers' and business organizations, Mr. Manning said.

"We feel sure," Mr. Macdonald said in his letter, "that you will agree with us when we state that the province must accept some definite responsibility and must evolve some workable plan to help the farmers."

In reply Mr. Manning said:

"We appreciate the expressed willingness of your group to co-operate with the government in such actions as may assist in bringing about a practicable solution to the present serious problem confronting not only this province, but western Canada as a whole. We feel that this common end could best be served by your group submitting in writing to the government any specific proposals which

Debt Payments Made In Wheat Illegal Rule

Creditors May Take Grain For Storage Only To Secure Debts.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23.—Farmers' creditors may not accept wheat from producers in payment of debt and then sell it to the Canadian Wheat Board, the board announced today.

Merchants, tradesmen, municipalities, irrigation companies and general creditors do not qualify as "producers" because they are general creditors rather than parties legally "entitled" to the wheat grown by the producer or any share of it as landlord, vendor, mortgagee or otherwise, by contract or operation of law, the board stated.

Under terms of the Canada Grain Act the board is permitted to buy wheat only from the producer.

FOR STORAGE ONLY

Creditors who wish security against debts owed by farmers may accept grain for storage, leaving title to such grain with the producer, the announcement said. This grain may then be delivered to the board in the name of the producer under government quotas for the land from which it is produced and as rapidly as facilities permit.

Payment for the grain would be made directly to the producer, the board declared, and arrangement for payment to the creditor would have to be made between the farmer and the creditor privately.

The board pointed out that if title to the wheat passes from the producer to the creditor, it would have to be offered for sale on the open market, still within the quota regulations and on the permit for the farm on which the wheat originated.

MARRIED MEN LOSE RELIEF SEPTEMBER 1

Provincial Aid Ceases For Certain Classes—Aliens Affected

Following its previous announcement that all physically fit single men would be cut off relief from August 21, the Alberta government on Friday announced that relief will be stopped for certain classes of physically fit married men from Sept. 1.

Married men without children or who have only one child and are physically fit, up to the age of 60 years, will be cut off relief under the new ruling. Married men with two children, up to the age of 45 and physically fit, also will be cut off.

Those having more than two children will continue to receive relief where needed. There is no information as to the number of relief recipients who will be affected.

The new action is similar to recent action by other provinces, including Ontario.

All enemy aliens, married or single, regardless of age, will be cut off provincial relief at the same date.

Young Canada More Than 100,000 Strong For Militia Camps

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—More than 100,000 young Canadians by October will have a touch of army life under canvas. These are the boys of the non-permanent active militia of whom 21,500 are at the moment encamped for two weeks. Most of them are at the big camps in central Canada, 5,500 at Farnham, Que., 5,200 at Niagara, Ont., and 3,500 at Petawawa west of Ottawa. At Sarcee near Calgary, is another crowd, 2,300 strong.

Attendance at camps is staggered to suit industry and agriculture. Some units go in two batches, for example, in the wheat country, and when the fruit harvest is on in British Columbia, arrangements are made so that bringing in the crops will not be interfered with. Arrangements are also made with industrial firms so employees will not be absent in camp at the same time.

SPECIAL SCHOOLS

Special camp schools are operated for the qualification of officers, sergeants and specialists such as instructors. These are usually held at regular camp sites and last from about 10 days to a month. From 10 to 200 students, officers taking examinations, and others may attend them.

This summer is different from the last for 65,000 young men. At the outbreak of the war there were only about 35,000 non-permanent militia men in the dominion and numbers of them didn't get to camp. This year the estimate of total N.P.A.M. strength is 100,700.

Locations of western Canada camps, period of training and units to train: Military District No. 10 (Manitoba), Shilo; Military District No. 11 (British Columbia), Heal's Range, sometime in September; Military District No. 12 (Saskatchewan), Dundurn.

REPUBLICAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO ROOSEVELT

President's Leadership Points Only Safe Way, Editor Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—William Allen White, chairman of the Committee To Defend America By Aiding the Allies and a frequent Republican critic of the Roosevelt administration, appealed Thursday night for "the patient confidence of a united people" for President Roosevelt.

"He has earned it," said White in a broadcast. "I, as a partisan Republican who has opposed him for eight years, want to pause to pay tribute to the President of the United States.

"From the beginning of this war against Democracy he has known that our first line trench lay across the Rhine. His vision, more than that of any other ruler of the world, has seen from the start the meaning of this ancient conflict.

WISE POLICY

"We may agree or disagree with him on domestic policies, but I think no American statesman of the first order has risen to deny that his leadership in foreign affairs has pointed the only direction of safety for the American people."

White also approved the foreign policies expressed by Wendell Willkie.

"Mr. Willkie's acceptance speech

Mr. Willkie's acceptance speech revealed his anxiety for British victory. This is a national cause. It calls for national unity."

White, publisher of The Emporia (Kas.) Gazette, said his committee had expanded to 600 locals throughout the United States, and that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 signatures to petitions had been obtained in behalf of the British cause.

FOR BRITAIN

He said "perhaps many thousands" of planes, as well as "considerable quantities" of guns and munitions, had been shipped to Britain and, formerly, to France.

He urged the sale of 50 over-age destroyers to Britain in return for naval bases in the western hemisphere, and other help for the British cause.

Eleven Killed

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Eleven persons in a commercial plane between Zagreb and Spalato were killed in a crash in the Karst mountains Thursday, reports from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, said.

WATERTON LAKES NATIONAL PARK, Alta., Aug. 23.—Seventy-five firefighters today fought 18 forest fires that were started yesterday by lightning in the Glacier Park across the international border in Montana.

U.S. "CONCHIE" NOW IN FAVOR CONSCRIPTION

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Aug. 23—Sgt. Alvin C. York, conscientious objector in the last war who was drafted and became a hero for the single handed capture of 132 German officers and men, favors conscription. York said conscription would "remove the morass of disgrace" which separated volunteers and drafted men.

WAR VETERAN SHUNS CREDIT FOR CAPTURE

A. W. Drum Tells How He Apprehended Escaped German

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—A 56-year-old veteran of the South African and First Great Wars frowned last night at the idea that he should get any special credit for the capture of Guenther Lorentz, Nazi prisoner who tunnelled his way out of a northern Ontario internment camp.

The veteran, A. W. Drum, supervisor of the Veterans' Guard detail at Victoria bridge where Guenther was detained Tuesday night, was the man who became suspicious of the hatless German fugitive and held him for Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Back on duty, all Supervisor Drum would say of the German's detention and arrest:

ORDERED HELD

"He didn't give satisfaction when he was questioned so I ordered him to be held as it was my duty to do."

The short, husky-looking supervisor would say little more, but there was more in it than just that.

Wearing a dark-gray suit, and carrying chocolate and road maps wrapped in a newspaper, the escaped prisoner reached Victoria bridge, stretching from Montreal Island to the southern mainland, sometime before sundown.

He looked weary and unwashed but it was the bundle which attracted first attention. Supervisor Drum stepped into his path to ask about the contents of the bundle.

Guenther held it out as he was asked who he was and where he was from.

ADMITS IDENTITY

The Nazi, a naval lieutenant, gave his name as Harm Nielsen and an address in Oslo, the northern capital. He said he had been in Canada only a short while.

His guttural accent, though his English was perfect otherwise, betrayed him.

Without making any attempt at resistance, he went along with the guard supervisor to the toll station at the head of the bridge.

A telephone call brought an R.C.M.P. patrol car and he was taken to headquarters, where further questioning finally brought an admission of his identity.

NATION'S CALL TO SINGLE MEN TO COME SOON

Tabulation For Military Purposes Expected To Start Next Week

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—First action on the mass of information obtained in this week's national registration will be taken next week when the department of national war services begins tabulating for military training purposes all single men of 21 to 45 years.

Already registration headquarters here is receiving from each constituency wire reports of the number of single men in each age group. By Monday the department expects to be in position to start sorting them out by age groups across the country, in preparation for calling up of the first military training classes for Oct. 1.

13 BOARDS

Regulations governing this calling up will be announced next Tuesday, Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, associate deputy minister of national war services announced Monday night. At the same time, the government will announce the personnel of the 13 boards (one for each military district) which will regulate the taking of men from certain industries and occupations for army training.

Judge Davis emphasized that there will be no exemptions from the 30-day training period for any called up for that purpose. Farmers will not be taken from their fields during harvest and fishermen will not be taken from their nets during fishing season, but they will be given military training at other periods. The same thing applies to university students engaged in special studies and others.

The same principle will apply in munitions and military equipment industries. If the class of 21 years is called for example, and an airplane factory finds it has 10 essential employees of that age, loss of whom might cripple its operations, that factory will present its case to the board in that military district. An agreement will be reached whereby the department will call not more than two, perhaps, in any one month and the remainder will be called as the year goes on.

THREE MEMBERS

The boards to be set up consist of three members, a judge and two prominent citizens, sometimes of three judges. The chairman of the board, always a judge, will be the only member working full time for the board.

Aside from making arrangements with industries to make sure that essential industries will not be interrupted by the training plan, the boards will have only one other duty, that of adjudicating the class of conscientious objectors. These are the only individuals they will deal with.

AN EAST CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 23.—A miniature cyclone is due to hit Toronto this week, and timid Torontonians are advised to check over their storm cellars, nail down the furniture and hang on to their hats. Arthur Maskery, the one boy riot is on his way.

Six-year-old Arthur, who is made up of 45 pounds of concentrated dynamite, staged a single-handed reign of terror on the liner that brought him here this week with about 500 other evacuee youngsters from Britain.

For 10 days, 493 other kiddies peered furtively in all directions before venturing into shipboard territory known to be Maskery-occupied. Crew members dived down hatches and pulled them shut. Arthur held that ship and its 1,500 passengers in the hollow of his hand.

KEPT IN SIGHT

One and all agreed, when the ship at last reached the welcome waters of Canada, that Arthur's inventiveness at thinking up new ways of torture for fellow beings was unsurpassed. Also, he had a genius for getting into personal predicaments which necessitated one of his official guardians keeping him in almost constant sight (always at a respectful distance of course).

The terror came from Glasgow with his sister Joan, nine, who was just another nice little girl on the ship. Their father is dead, and they are going to live with their grandfather in Toronto.

When this reporter located Arthur, he was perched atop a cabinet with his body halfway through a porthole opening on a 50-foot drop into the sea. An attendant casually yanked him back by the seat of the pants.

BOSS OF FAMILY

Arthur was asked where he was going. "Glumpfather," he said. "He's the boss of the family now," he explained. When he fell silent, twisting a string around his neck which originally had held his identity tag and which he had of course disposed of. The interview ended abruptly here as a steward banged a pan to announce dinner and Arthur elbowed his way to the front rank of the hungry pack.

HIGH-POWERED RADIO STATION UNDER REVIEW

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Construction of a high-powered Canadian shortwave broadcasting station, for carrying Canadian news and views to the far corners of the earth, is under consideration by the government, it was learned Thursday.

Such a station has been periodically urged in the last two or three years in the house of commons radio committee and elsewhere as a means of promoting Canadian trade and good will.

The question has been reported on by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation on several occasions, always with a recommendation of the desirability of such a station.

The obstacle has been the money. Since such a station would be primarily a service to people outside of Canada, its financing out of funds obtained from radio license sales in Canada has been considered somewhat objectionable. It is felt the funds should be provided by a special appropriation from general government funds, just as the recent tourist advertising campaign in United States publications was financed.

NAZI FLIERS ARE DOWNED BY GUNNERS

Canadians Take Enemy War Birds On Wing In England

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A SOUTH COAST TOWN IN ENGLAND, Aug. 23 — The accurate fire of Canadian machine-gunners has added two, perhaps three raiders to the growing pile of shattered skeletons of German airplanes littering the United Kingdom.

Cpl. F. J. Stephenson, former mayor of a Canadian town, brought down a Junkers bomber after running into an open field with a Bren gun and exposing himself to enemy fire.

Pte. John F. Clarke, Toronto, member of the Central Ontario Regiment, fired 60 rounds from a light anti-aircraft gun into a Messerschmitt fighter and watched it crash a mile away. Its pilot, wearer of the Iron Cross, and a navigator were badly wounded.

GERMANS FELL

Recently three German bombers fell prey to Canadian marksmanship, jettisoned their cargo in an attempt to escape, and the explosion of two of the bombs killed three Canadians.

Clarke was guarding a range his regiment was using for target practice when a Messerschmitt streaked toward the English channel 100 yards over his head. It had been struck earlier by anti-aircraft fire, but the pilot, using faultless English, said from his hospital cot: "We were confident of getting home until the Canadian's bullets poured into our cockpit."

Both the pilot and his navigator were 17 and still had down on their cheeks. The flier explained his iron cross by nine small white stripes painted on the rudder of his plane. He claimed each stripe represented a British plane that had fallen before his cannon fire.

On the nose of the fuselage was caricatured a British fighter disappearing into the open paws of an alligator.

SHOTS WENT HOME

Stephenson was manning an anti-aircraft gun with Cpl. F. Smithers of Vancouver and Toronto, when the Junkers flew close to the encampment of his engineering unit. Two Spitfires were chasing it and the German was flying low so that the British could attack only from above. The R.A.F. planes still were out of range when the Canadians sighted the raider.

Noticing the German steering off, Stephenson and Smithers quickly moved the Bren gun into an open field where they could have an unobstructed shot. The third burst fired by Stephenson rolled the Junkers over right on its back and it crashed in the next field.

Stephenson is rated a machine-gun sharpshooter as a result of three months he served recently at sea manning an anti-aircraft weapon.

Another Bren gun crew of engineers reported its tracer bullets cut the full length of the fuselage of one of six raiders that appeared in the vicinity of a Canadian camp. Soon afterward the twisted wreckage of the bomber was found a short distance away. Because corroboration was lacking Canadians are not making an outright claim to this war bird.

EAST DEFENCE IS INSPECTED BY MINISTER

HALIFAX, Aug. 23.—Associate Defence Minister C. G. Power was back in Halifax last night to continue his inspection of Canada's new eastern command, after flying from Newfoundland via Sydney, N.S., during the day.

Wednesday Mr. Power and a party of defence officers accompanying him conferred with Newfoundland officials on the joint defence of the "oldest colony" and it was announced that they had reached a "complete agreement" on all points. The party inspected Newfoundland defences, and Canadian air and land forces stationed there.

The group inspected the seaplane base at North Sydney and the Sydney airport continuing their tour of the eastern command. Today they are expected to fly to Prince Edward Island.

Other points in the command are to be visited on the tour, and the minister will inspect army, navy and air force units before he returns to Ottawa over the week-end.

Speed-Up Promised In News Releases On German Raids

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information, promised the house of commons on Thursday there would be less delay in the future in allowing news accounts of German air raids to reach North America.

He said the delays were due to "rules which were made at a time when it was expected that official communiques would be issued more promptly than has so far been the case." That situation is being remedied.

Refuse Pay

FORT ERIE, Aug. 23.—Twenty-two deputy registrars in charge of national registration here refused remuneration or expense money in connection with their services. They are entitled to $9 each for the three-day period so the government will save $198.

Winter Ends

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 23.—The sun peeped over the horizon of Little America Thursday, ending the long Antarctic winter, John Griggs, radio amateur, reported after an hour long talk with the Byrd expedition. With the return of the sun came "warmer" weather, Griggs said he was told. The temperature was only 12 below.

Miner Rescued

LETHBRIDGE, Aug. 23.—Lawrence Lewis, trapped by a cave-in of the roof in the city coal mine here, was brought out of the workings some hours later after rescue workers removed tons of gravel and rock. He was immediately rushed to hospital where it was discovered that his injuries were not serious.

NO MILITARY VALUE IN BIG GUN SHELLING

a wide coastal area around Dover. The attack came in two sessions, the first about dusk. As late as midnight, Dover residents were leaving their homes to spend the night in safer places.

The Royal Air Force replied with dive-bomber attacks, the big planes crossing the channel during both bombardments and aiming their bombs at the flames as the enemy artillery fired.

The battle was spectacular, with an estimated 50 or more shells ruffling across the channel at the height of one attack, and with the boom of British bombs heard bursting on the German side, from 20 to 30 miles away.

These German guns were the ones brought into their first big action yesterday morning, when their shells burst all around a British convoy in the channel. A bulletin on this attack said no ships were hit.

DOVER, England, Aug. 23.—Red and green moving vans packed with furniture moved ponderously up the Dover hills today, moving inhabitants and their goods of this famous Kent seaport which has now become a front-line city.

For, while there was no official order to get out, a good many of the city's 41,000 persons have decided that life is too uncertain now that the Germans have begun their shelling of this coast by big guns across the channel.

They didn't mind so much the bombing raids—at any rate they were reasonably jolly in ducking for cover when the air raid warnings sounded—but most of them saw now that the German gunnery is too poor to be healthy. The big shells may land anywhere.

George Fitzpatrick's wine store was damaged, a church was hit, at least three dwellings were demolished, and a movie house was shaken so badly that the picture was blurred.

The splinters that hit Fitzpatrick's place smashed his German wine stock, but Fitzpatrick said he didn't mind because he "couldn't sell the stuff anyway after the war started."

A policeman stood guard over two demolished house walls which stood no higher than four feet above the ground.

"Now would you believe it," he asked, "but an old woman and her husband were dug out of that house on the right—I mean what's left of it—and the man wasn't even scratched? The wife was hurt only a little."

In another section of the town a small dwelling lay crushed by a shell, which military men said may have been of 12-inch calibre.

THEATRE "DANCED"

The picture theatre was crowded when it began "dancing like a Hottentot," according to excited patrons. They didn't mind that at first, but the projector and the screen danced a divergent rhythm and time, and the focus was ruined.

One shell scored a direct hit on a Protestant church. On the floor among the debris of plaster and shattered candelabra lay a colored print "Jesus is stripped of his garments."

The picture bore the imprint of the shop of Franz Hanfstaengel of Munich, the family of "Putzi" Hanfstaengel, former piano-playing intimate of Adolf Hitler.

BRITISH, ITALO WARSHIPS OFF ISLE OF CRETE

automatically aid Greece if Italy attacked her.

It was denied also that General Metaxas was seeking the aid of Adolf Hitler or that Greek army leaves had been cancelled.

Greece has made no real preparation for war but Greeks seemed ready to make a stand if Italy attacked and they seemed to have confidence that they would have the support not only of Great Britain but of Turkey and Jugoslavia.

For the present the government seemed to be putting its reliance on the guarantee by Great Britain of assistance if Greece were attacked.

Columns of Italian mountain troops were reported occupying strategic passes in the rugged Albanian mountains facing the Greek frontier but rumors that frontier incidents already had occurred were not credited here.

The British United Press correspondent at Corfu reported by telephone that all was normal there and that there was no confirmation of reports that the British had occupied the island, reported about to be demanded from Greece by Italy.

It was reported also that all was quiet on Crete.

The semi-official news agency today described as "pure inventions" Albanian press reports that Greece was arming bands of Albanian terrorists.

British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

ROME, Aug. 23—Authoritative quarters denied categorically today that Italy had served an ultimatum on Greece, giving her 24 hours to renounce her British guarantees.

The same quarters discredited reports that the British had occupied the Greek islands of Crete and Corfu. It was said that if there had been any such occupation it certainly would have been known here, and that nothing had been heard of it.

ATHENS, Aug. 23—Four categories of specialists in Greece's armed forces were called to the colors today. The number involved was not disclosed.

you feel would be helpful, and which you may be assured will receive prompt and careful consideration. If after proper consideration of your proposals, it is deemed desirable to consult with some of the members of your group regarding the same, we will be pleased to do so.

ADVANCE ON GRAIN

"In regard to your suggestion that we call in representatives of various organizations, I may say that we have already received representations from both farmers and business organizations and we are doing everything in our power to impress upon the Federal authorities the common desire of all such groups, namely, that a substantial advance on stored grain should be assured to the farmers without delay. We have urged upon the Prime Minister of Canada that the present situation confronting the west has already reached the proportions of a national emergency demanding immediate action by the proper Federal authorities. While we feel that all will agree that this is a true statement of the case, nevertheless you may rest assured that we as a provincial government will not evade our responsibility to do everything in our power to see that the problem is solved without delay."

TORONTO FAIR OPENED TODAY BY GOVERNOR

Material Resources Of Canada, Says Athlone, Way Win War

TORONTO, Aug. 23—Supply of material resources from Canada may well tip the scales of war in favor of the British Empire, the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada, said today in formally opening the Canadian National Exhibition.

He approved the holding of the 62nd annual C.N.E.—largest annual show of its kind in the world—because of "the very nature of this war and the very nature of this exhibition."

"This is a war in which the preponderance of material resources may well prove the decisive factor, and the supply from Canada may easily tip the scales in our favor. Here we see before us the shop window of these resources.

"I would invite all our visitors to look into the window and see for themselves what we have in our store and what we can contribute to the common cause, and then I would like you to ask yourselves whether it would be possible for an exhibition such as this to be held now in Germany or Italy. And perhaps in the answer to that question you will derive much encouragement and a great confidence in our ability to win through to victory."

ENDURING PEACE

His Excellency said Canada was facing a double task: to win the war and then to establish an enduring peace. It would be a mistake if in the turmoil of war "we were to undermine the foundations on which peace must be built. It would, in fact, be an act of capitulation to the forces of barbarism, which we are striving to overthrow."

The Governor-General and his wife, Princess Alice, were guests at a luncheon of the C.N.E. directors and the opening ceremonies took place at the main bandshell. The "ex" gets under way on a big scale tomorrow when 30,000 veterans march in the warriors day parade, an event given special emphasis this year.

An international typewriting marathon—with contestants from Canada and the United States transcribing H. G. Wells' "The Outline of History"—was opened by remote control by James H. R. Cromwell, former U.S. minister to Canada, speaking by telephone from Camden, N.J. He spoke of the contest as a demonstration of the exemplary relations between Canada and the United States.

and a cinema and there was a small number of casualties.

"In two towns in northeast England there was damage to property and in two towns in southeast England slight damage was caused. Some damage and casualties were caused in other areas.

DEATHS IN COUNTRY

Details of the night's fatalities around the country reached London during the morning.

Three persons—an elderly man, his grandson and an air raid warden—were killed when a single raider dropped four high explosive bombs on a northeast Scotland town. The boy's mother was taken to a hospital critically hurt. They were in a shelter behind their bungalow.

In a northeast England town, two children were killed when a German bomber dropped six bombs in the residential area, and in a southeast town one man was killed and two were injured. Many high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped in the southeast area, but most fell in the open country.

Thickly Populated Districts Are Hit

LONDON, Aug. 23—One bomb dropped in this morning's raid on three London suburbs scored a direct hit on a movie theatre, which was empty, and barely missed an apartment building, which was full.

This seemed to typify the result of the raid, in which houses and apartment buildings were damaged in thickly-populated sections but only a relatively few persons were hurt. Police said none was killed.

A daylight survey after the London area's first night raid of the war showed that in addition to a number of private houses and apartment buildings, two movie theatres, a dance hall, a saloon and a bank were damaged.

SLEEPERS BOMBED

There were 200 persons still asleep in the apartment building which was just missed, but none was hurt. Two women, awakened by the blast which wrecked the neighboring movie theatre, found themselves blanketed by sharp fragments of splintered glass from a window above their bed.

The bomb had struck the boiler house in the movie, demolishing the theatre and an adjoining dance hall. The front entrance and the balcony of the theatre alone were left standing. The boiler was draped in grotesque shapes over the orchestra seats, while the silvered screen, which had reflected many newsreel images of war scenes around the world, swayed in tattered strips.

Some suburban streets were closed off this morning as the debris was being cleared away and the ruins were searched for possible additional casualties.

In one suburb, where three bombs fell between a movie theatre and a bank across the street, the windows of stores and houses were shattered for 100 yards.

BLOWN FROM BED

A housewife, Mrs. J. Jackson, who lives in the heart of the thickly-populated district, said, "The force of the explosion blew me out of bed."

Another woman who lives across the street from the movie theatre said she was on the way to awaken her 13-year-old son after she saw the searchlights in the sky outside her window when "suddenly there was a whistling sound as if a bomb were dropping."

"I flung myself over my boy," she said, "and suddenly there was a huge flare from across the road and a terrific rending sound which seemed to leave us both deaf.

"Glass crashed in from every window in the house, but we were not hurt."

Today's War Moves

Hitler, not only in the air but also at home. An aggressive war machine which has proclaimed conquest as its motive must continue its offensive or risk disillusioning its own civilian support.

HITLER'S DILEMMA

This fact does not hold in the same way for a nation defensively fighting to preserve itself. Here is Hitler's present dilemma. The necessity for a conqueror to continue conquering or risk downfall is axiomatic throughout all military history.

A conqueror is always on the defensive along the home front. Having promised his people domination over the enemy, he must make his gains to justify the sacrifices he exacts at home. If he fails, in any major sense to do so, that becomes a defeat as influential on future events as a retreat in the field.

To sit tight and hold the enemy from advancing is possible for a defending nation without loss of morale; but a conqueror must push ahead. To check the enemy is not sufficient. He must overwhelm them or he cannot explain his losses.

That is Hitler's present position. It is an old one in the careers of world conquerors and is the risk they all have to take.

Hitler must now be beginning to dimly understand this axiom of conquest. He cannot await events. He must try to make them obedient to his will.

He has brought his war machine face to face with the final enemy. But, his air force has not found the secret of success; his "total blockade" cannot even close the channel at its narrow 20-mile width to British shipping; his long-range bombardments are answered in turn. He has a fully equipped army of nearly 3,000,000 men, but they are idle.

HITLER'S LAST HOPE

This great mechanized force is locked within the European continent, but it seems to be Hitler's last hope. To risk his army by trying to invade Britain would seem to approach too near to outright disaster. Yet, it is hard to believe the army itself will be content to remain impassive awaiting the full revival of British power.

It is probable that Hitler now is concerned with this ultimate problem of his career. He is examining the direction a new military stroke might take against the British Empire with the least chance of a set-back. The way through the Balkans into Asia seems less dangerous than any other, if Russia can be quieted.

Should there be no new offensive against Britain, German morale at home may well show a serious decline before next winter ends. If that happens, the war will then enter its concluding phase.

Italo Planes Bomb Alexandria Area

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 23.—Italian aircraft early this morning bombed the Alexandria area.

A succession of planes heard in the cloudy sky dived down to unload their explosives.

An air raid warning lasted 2½ hours except for two brief all-clear signals.

A British naval communique issued early Friday said:

"There was an air raid over Alexandria about 1 a.m. A few planes took part. No damage appears to have been done."

Lieut.-Col. Cassels Appointed Deputy Adjutant-General

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 — Lt.-Col. George Hamilton Cassels (retired list) has been appointed in the Canadian Active Service Force as deputy adjutant-general with the rank of brigadier to take over administration duties generally connected with the military as a result of the National Resources Mobilization Act, 1940, it was announced today.

from returns submitted by the deputy registrars and are subject to final check.

Of the East Edmonton total 18,614 were men and 18,065 women, the male sex being in the majority in the riding by a scant 549.

According to the unofficial tabulation compiled from the deputy registrars' returns there are 4,367 men between the ages of 19 and 45 in the riding.

AGE GROUPS

Break-down into age groups of this total will be proceeded with immediately and the cards forwarded to Ottawa and local committees to be appointed to deal with military training drafts under the National Service Act.

During Thursday registrars reported that several men endeavored to register. They told the registrars that they could not register during the three days of national registration. They were evasive in their answers, but when pressed by the registrars on their inability to registrar they confessed they had just been released from Fort Saskatchewan jail Thursday morning.

Under the terms of the National Registration regulations inmates of penal institutions including prisons were not to be registered. These men will now have to register at the post office, where Postmaster A. R. McKenzie has established machinery for registration for those who, through inability to get to registration centres during the three days of registration, have been unable to comply with the law.

102 Years

MONTREAL, Aug. 23—Like thousands of other Montrealers, Mrs. Ovila Gariepy signed her national registration card with a steady hand. She wore no spectacles. That wasn't so unusual—but her age was. She told a special registrar who came to her home that she was 102, born Jan. 24, 1838.

Airman Killed

LONDON, Aug. 23—Pilot-Officer F. A. H. (Arthur) Lambart of the Royal Air Force was killed on active service Aug. 14, it was learned Thursday. He came from Ottawa where his father, Howard Lambart, lives.

Japan Hesitates

There can be no doubt of Japan's ill-will towards the Democracies and her desire to emulate the feats of the Axis powers. But those who see something ominous in the diplomatic shuffle that recalls five of her ambassadors and nineteen of her ministers to Tokyo are perhaps too apprehensive.

This re-shaping of her diplomatic corps is more indicative of hesitation than of any immediate intention to strike.

A nation does not wage war through ambassadors. If she is badly disposed towards her neighbors, she merely uses these gentlemen to trick them.

Japan's latest move, then, would appear to reveal her intention of first trying a confidence game on the Occident before she dares to indulge openly in robbery and murder.

On Perishing by the Sword

There is something at once ludicrous and pathetic about the exiled Trotsky indicting, with his last breath, the bolshevik secret police for his own murder.

Of late years, the man who shared with Lenin the responsibility for introducing the egregious system of Communism that never worked and the deadly system of mass murder that worked too well, has been living in retirement, trying to regain respectability and prestige by protesting that the present Soviet monster is something he never conceived at all.

Nothing could have given the lie to his protestations so violently as the fact that out of his own creation was to spring the weapon that struck him down. There is a little axiom about those who "take up the sword" that applies perfectly here.

There is so much poetic justice about this fatal affair that even sceptics can begin to believe again in the inevitable punishment of evil and the inevitable triumph of right.

What Happened to France?

Colonel William C. Donovan, noted American soldier of the last war, writes for this newspaper an interesting explanation of the circumstances that led to the abject surrender of France.

France, he says, was undermined morally by German agents. The near-breakdown of her parliamentary system, as evidenced by the instability of her rapidly changing governments, had shaken her faith in Democracy. Thus, when Hitler came in with his terrorism, his frightfulness and his campaign of propaganda, the French people succumbed to panic. The cowardice of some of her leaders completed the picture of national weakness and despair.

Colonel Donovan's summary is apt and probably as near the truth as anyone can come without the perspective afforded by the passage of years. But it cannot be a full explanation without taking into account the background of uncertainty, internal bitterness and multiplicity of political opinions which the French people had inherited from the violence of her eighteenth century revolution.

It is common nowadays to accept the French Revolution as a process that substituted republicanism for monarchy by the simple expedient of cutting off a number of heads. It was a great deal more than that. And it was infinitely more complex than that.

The truth is that France speeded up the evolutionary cycle of political development to such a tempo that she has never quite stopped the whirring of the revolutionary wheels.

England's transition from absolute to constitutional monarchy was accomplished gradually and with little violence. Her people slowly accustomed themselves to the responsibilities of representative government. Frenchmen, on the other hand, found themselves saddled with an authority for which they had never been prepared except by the assumption of a false freedom that soon degenerated into license.

Discord was the keynote of the French Revolution. It has been the keynote of the First, Second and Third Republics. It is interesting to remember that even after the Reign of Terror was over, the Convention and the Sections of Paris were still at war with each other. It is even more significant to note that Thiers wrote the French constitution with the definite expectation that the monarchy would return.

The French Revolution has never quite ended because its participants could never make up their minds exactly what they wanted. There have always been more royalists than republicans in France. How could one expect to find a united and organized nation when that nation, for two hundred years, had been living under the conviction that further change was necessary and was bound to come?

That this change took the form of Naziism is due only to the peculiar circumstances under which it occurred. France was ready to blow up anyway. Hitler's pressure precipitated the explosion.

There is nothing wrong with Frenchmen. It is only that their heritage of violence and discord unmanned them in a national crisis.

Nazi dreadfulness and corruption were only the immediate causes of the French collapse. The most vital cause probably dates back to the taking of the Bastile.

CANADA IN THIRD PLACE AS SOUTH AFRICAN SUPPLIER

During 1939 Canada ranked third, following the United Kingdom and the United States, among the 105 countries and territories listed as sources of South Africa's merchandise imports, having moved up from fourth place in 1938 to displace Germany. In 1939 Canada supplied 4.3 per cent of all imports into South Africa as compared with 3.5 per cent in 1938.

The value of South Africa's merchandise imports from Canada in 1939 was £3,629,025 and of imports of government stores £439,632, a total of £4,068,657. In comparison merchandise imports in 1938 were valued at £3,011,328 and imports of government stores at £515,449, making a total of £3,526,777. Thus the total imports last year showed a gain of 14 per cent as compared with 1938. Direct exports of merchandise from South Africa to Canada in 1939 also rose to £710,617 from £380,226 in 1938—Commercial Intelligence News.

BRITAIN'S "SPITFIRE"

Daily reports of aerial fighting in the Battle of Britain make clear the marked superiority of the Supermarine Spitfire 1, the fastest military plane in the world—Britain's leading interceptor, fighter and pursuit plane. Many of us have seen the Hawker Hurricane in practice flights in Canada. Both, powered by the Rolls Royce Merlin motor have phenomenal speed. The Hurricane, which carries eight automatic machine guns, mounted in the wings and can pull itself up into the sky to 10,000 feet in 4.8 minutes (or 20,000 ft. in nine minutes) has a speed of 335 miles an hour.

The Spitfire is even faster by 30 miles an hour. It can climb after invading planes at a speed of 2,400 ft. per minute. Armed with eight remote-control machine guns which fire 600 bullets a minute, it is more than a match for the German Messerschmitts, whose speed is 310 miles an hour, Heinkels that do 316 miles per hour and the Dornier bombers—the "flying pencils"—with a speed of 300 miles per hour.

War in the air at speeds of five miles a minute takes cool brains and quick thinking. Even the landing of these machines, which come in at great speed, is a feat of daring. No skill of a sea captain, handling a mammoth liner in a seaway is comparable to the skill required to manoeuvre and fight a Hurricane, or a Spitfire, hurtling through the skies at 367 miles an hour with a war load of nine and a half tons.

PRAISES—FROM ITALY

Colonel Lindbergh, who achieved fame and fortune, a colonelcy and a rich wife by flying across the Atlantic—twelve years after two young British flyers had done it without publicity in an old army crate—has received evidences of unpopularity of late. His latest speech at Chicago, urging United States to enter into a pact with Germany whereby each will be supreme in its own hemisphere, caused Congressmen and Senators to denounce him as leader of the fifth-columnists, and to question his military standing and knowledge.

Unkindest cut of all comes from the Rome newspaper Popolo di Roma, which applauds him as an international hero and leader of a new third party in American politics, after the Colonel had denied association with any such party. Lindbergh in his radio address gave his personal opinion that Britons had everything, while Germans were short of things. He made no mention of the "guns before butter" policy of Goering or of the mammoth expenditures Germany had made on preparation for world domination.

FRUITS OF TREACHERY

Already, causes for the sensational collapse of France in the field are being discovered. They suggest that widespread treachery had honeycombed France in preparation for the German attack. French soldiers on the northern front say that German loudspeakers announced to them the names and numbers of French regiments that were coming up, three days before the French soldiers themselves knew. A factory containing 100 fully completed armored cars was abandoned several days before the Germans arrived. Flares were sent up during the aerial bombardments of Havre and Bordeaux, outlining the areas to be raided.

Nazi agents, posing as French officials, telephoned mayors of communities which were not threatened, warning them (falsely) that the Germans were coming and they must evacuate their towns immediately.

Most of the operatives were placed in France years before the attack, aided by information blackmailed from French officials who had fallen for German bribes, or into German-laid traps. Fear of an attack from within is now given as the real reason for surrendering Paris and other "open" towns without fighting.

Despite the immense sums spent on equipment of the Maginot Line defenses, it is said that the reinforced concrete of which the forts were built was of inferior quality. An American correspondent with the German armies, Percival Knauth, says the concrete he examined could have been successfully attacked with a pick. Metal bars used as reinforcement were only as thick as his finger and could be bent with the hands.

Many of the forts were without means to oppose a frontal attack at close range; none of them were protected from attack at the rear.

There'll be many a post-mortem held on the body of France after the war is over.

CARING FOR THE KIDDIES

Nothing is being overlooked in the defence of Britain. The B.B.C. has broadcasted tips on how to care for children in the underground shelters. "Make a 24-hour feed for the baby each morning and keep it ready to take down at a moment's notice." "Children are apt to suffer from nervous sickness. To prevent this tie a warm scarf round the child's stomach." "Have toys and games in the shelter. In case some of the children are sick bring some paper bags." "Keep the children warm—especially their feet. Have their stoutest shoes and stockings handy." "Keep a vacuum bottle of something hot ready. The heat as much as the drink helps in overcoming shock," etc.

This is a war on women and children as well as on armed men.

A NATION ON THE ALERT

Outwardly, life moves on as usual in Canada. Only as we hear of one lad after another, known to us, going off to join the colors, do we realize how the war is penetrating into every community and into almost every family circle.

Recently we learned how on the alert is the whole nation. Because of the Pennsylvania license on our car, Milady was courteously questioned by an intelligence officer, as to our lineage, our residence, and our possession of firearms. We are hoping for a visit to the camp of this affable young man.

Eyes everywhere are on the lookout. The Province of Quebec has organized and equipped its thousands of forest rangers, trappers and lumbermen as a vigilance force covering the wide wilderness expanse. Workingmen throughout the Dominion, who are the best of anti-fifth column agents, are keen-eyed to detect treason.

Lying clear upon the surface of these conditions is the spiritual lesson that Christians should be equally alert to the enemies that menace the soul. From the Garden comes the warning word, "Watch."

Thou hast given us souls to keep, our Father, and we would guard them as a treasured heritage from Thee. Deliver us from sloth and carelessness and easy content. Amen.

Radium Monopoly

One effect of the German invasion and occupation of the Low Countries has been to give Canada a virtual world monopoly of the production of radium through the refining at Port Hope of the pitchblende-bearing ores mined in the Northwest Territories.

Before these ores began to be refined the world radium industry was centred in Belgium, where a radium trust operated using ores mined in the Belgian Congo. One result of competition from Canada was to bring down the world price of radium very materially through breaking this trust and thus to confer a great boon upon suffering humanity.

With the penetration of Belgium by the Germans, however, the operations of the trust have been indefinitely suspended. As a matter of fact, the radium refinery in that country has been closed since the beginning of the year, probably because of the difficulties involving in shipping ores from the Congo, and there is thus every probability that little radium or even radium-bearing ore fell into the hands of the enemy.

Canada thus becomes, perhaps surprisingly, the centre of the world's radium trade, and it is to be earnestly hoped that the virtual monopoly which this country now enjoys in that respect will not be reflected in increasing the price of radium beyond reason.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Truth First

Censorship helped to ruin France. Newspapers, which would have prepared the public for resistance, were suppressed. Bewildered and perplexed, the people were easy prey for the invader. British newspapers are free. The only censorship is voluntary. But there are some people who would impose on the press restrictions which would abridge its freedom to comment on events. It is a dangerous movement. It would make every session of parliament a secret session, every court a secret court. It would instil doubts and fears. From the beginning of the war, and for long before the war, the newspapers of Britain have served the nation well. They warned the public of Germany's strength. In calling for conscription they expressed the public will. They have persistently pointed out that victory could not come easily. In this endeavor the Sunday Chronicle took an early lead, and maintained it all through the months of smugness, complacency, and stagnation. "Let us not deceive ourselves," said the Sunday Chronicle. "The enemy is strong, ruthless, and determined: and he has not yet begun to fight." Who now dares to say that we should not have done these things, or continue to do them? Not those who represent the people of Britain, but those who fear to face the truth and to trust the public. Such fears are base. We know the people of Britain to be worthy of trust and united in their determination to win the war. They deserve to be told all of the truth that can be told.—Sunday Chronicle, London.

Little Boats at Dunkerque

The current issue of "Yachting" adds another stanza to the saga of Dunkerque with a first-hand account, by one of that "horde of unimportant people sailing a vast collection of ludicrous little boats across the Channel," of the fleet that mobilized over night to save the British Expeditionary Force and its French allies from the hell of the Flanders defeat.

It was a strange aggregation that made for the beach at Dunkerque—dodging bombs, wrecks and larger vessels, braving the inconstant and unpredictable narrow seas—tiny vessels on their first venture from the Thames or the Norfolk Broads; masters who had never known war and crews receiving their baptism of salt water. All the variegated and colorful craft of both shores of the Channel were represented—pleasure cruisers, ships' lifeboats, sailing barges, river launches, picket boats, beach boats, plump bawleys of the estuary, fat Dutch schouts, French smacks and Belgian boats from Ostend, tugs and tenders, yachts, trawlers, drifters and dinghies. A true Homeric "catalogue of the ships"!

With this motley array and a minimum of instructions the yachtsmen and commercial boatmen of England set out to achieve one of the most difficult feats of warfare—the withdrawal of a defeated force from a port under fire. T. Norman Hinton, the narrator of the tale in Yachting, records that as he set out from Southend a fast naval launch appeared and a rear admiral aboard her shouted across the water.

"'When you arrive at Dunkerque,' he said, 'go on past the Mole and put in to a beach about two miles to the east of it. Troops are waiting for you there. Load as many as you can, and if possible put them aboard a bigger vessel and go back for more. If there are no big boats about, bring your men straight back to England.' Then he sheered off and left us to it."

No more than this; yet Hinton took his little craft across forty-one miles of treacherous Channel, narrowly missed a German bomb, was nearly swamped by the wakes of larger, faster vessels, and, after twenty-four hours, limped back to port with one engine dead and twenty-four persons aboard a boat that would hold six in comfort.

Hinton's exploit, modestly related, was, as the author points out, a "tiny part" of a magnificent job of extemporization. It was a job which made terrific demands on individual initiative, skill and personal courage, and its happy completion was a triumphant vindication of these qualities in a mechanistic world. May the fashion on which the men of England rose to that emergency be an augury for the grave tasks which lie ahead!—New York Herald-Tribune.

McKenney On Bridge

Sometimes the expert outmanoeuvres himself on a hand, as one of the stars did on the hand shown today.

At trick two West led the deuce of diamonds and South won with the ace. He played a small heart to dummy's queen, ruffed a club and led a heart to the ace. Next he led the jack of clubs and discarded the four of spades.

Declarer could read that West held a 6-6-1-0 distribution. This throw-in established the club ten for a discard, and also, West might lead away from the spades rather than clubs. West did lead a spade, but declarer guessed wrong and hopped up with the queen.

At another table a player, who was practically a beginner, made the hand by winning the diamond with the ace, cashing two rounds of trumps, and then playing the ace of spades. East's king dropped, and, of course, it was a simple matter to ruff a club and then lead a diamond, forcing East in. East had to lead a diamond, giving declarer a ruff and a club, and his contract of five-odd.

Hitler's Fifth Column Proves Complete Failure With People Of Britain

Following is an article by Col. William C. Donovan, in collaboration with correspondent Edgar Mowrer. The article was designed as a warning to Americans and arranged by Frank Knox, secretary of the United States navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet. We feel this article is of great interest and importance to Canadians as well.—EDITOR.

By COL. WILLIAM C. DONOVAN and EDGAR MOWRER

Through Courtesy British United Press

The masterpiece of the "Fifth Column" was unquestionably the French debacle. Here everything that Hitler had promised came to pass with almost mathematical precision.

He did not strike until he was in touch with certain important Frenchmen who were ready to treat with him. He needed but one swift blow. He terrified the soldiers by his noise-making engines, he demoralized the officers by the surprise and power of his attacks, he bewildered the generals by the daring of his strategic conceptions, he troubled the entire population by his radio propaganda that insisted that France was being betrayed by Britain and by the French "war-mongers." He spread horrible rumors through villages, issued fearsome reports by wireless, and then, when the populations had congested the roads in their flight, machine-gunned them to heighten their panic.

CRACKED UP MORALLY

Meanwhile his agents within France, presumably by clandestine wireless senders, kept him informed of what was going on and he could thus choose the precise moment for Italy's entrance into the war when French disarray was at its climax. As a result France was not only beaten far more thoroughly and far more easily than Poland, but, unlike Poland, France cracked morally as well and a new set of leaders sought to purchase the German's mercy, if not his respect, by submission to France's conquerors.

Admittedly this could not have been accomplished save during a low ebb in French history. The French masses were increasingly materialistic. Capital and labor were at loggerheads, the former remembering the experiments of the Popular Front government of 1936-37, the latter resentful of the attempted Fascist coup d'etat in 1934 and the unpunished "Gagoulard" Fascist conspiracy later.

Moreover, the peculiar French form of parliamentary government was creaking and the bulk of the people had lost nearly all faith in their leaders. This enabled Hitler (and Mussolini as well) to keep up propaganda pressure, often through the Communists, and prevent the output in the armament industries from ever reaching a satisfactory level.

TOTALITARIAN TREND

The crucial test justified all Hitler's efforts; when the French soldiers had a chance of fighting on equal terms, they fought fairly well; when nothing but heroism could have made up for superior German equipment, the French infantry, repeatedly deserted by their officers, melted away.

What happened to the French officers? Simply this: For the most part they had ceased to believe in freedom, democracy or any of the slogans which alone could galvanize the entire country.

While not exactly pro-Fascist (and certainly not pro-German), they were hostile to the Third Republic; many had come to believe that an authoritarian regime like that of Italy and Germany was really preferable. It would, they thought, save the position of the privileged classes; and really save France from the disagreeable necessity of defending itself. If there was to be a war, then let it be against the Bolsheviks. In other words, at least half and perhaps the majority of influential French citizens had come to believe what Hitler wanted them to believe.

PATIENT PLANNING

How had Hitler accomplished this? By patient activity. For years his agents in France, Friedrich Sieburg the author, Otto Abetz, "pro-French" consuls like Nolde, many others, had "worked" the French leaders. When necessary they were assisted by beautiful women; the Baroness von Einem, the Princess von Hohenlohe, and others of lesser brilliance. They "got in" with certain of those leading French women who, at the moment of defeat, exercised such a devastating influence on certain French statesmen. They went everywhere, saw everybody, came to know everything, dipped into French politics through scandalously venal French newspapers.

To the weak and the cynical they preached defeatism; to the unsuccessful, hatred of the Jew; to all the possibility of living on good terms with Germany, if only France would break relations with the Bolsheviks and "money minded" Britain, cease meddling in central and eastern Europe and propitiate the Italians by the gift of some "unimportant" French territories.

For years this sort of thing went on more or less in broad daylight. During the appeasement period the Germans actually were aided by certain members of the British embassy in Paris.

Not until two months before the outbreak of the war did anyone dare to take action against the numerous German agents — and then the vacillating Daladier talked big and did little.

RUSH SURRENDER

A hesitant officer class brought about sure defeat for the army, the army's defeat frightened the army leaders lest the soldiers seek scapegoats among the generals. And a majority of cynical and cowardly politicians rushed their country into one of the most contemptible surrenders on record. Just as Adolf Hitler had said they would.

What of Hitler's "Fifth Column" in Great Britain? Short of the supreme test, it is impossible to say for sure. What is evident is that during the appeasement period the Germans spun a web of friendship for Nazi Germany among the more gullible or dissatisfied members of the ruling class.

It is obviously a triumph in so proud a country as Britain to have created even so weak a satellite party as the British Union of Fascists. Organizations like The Link, the Anglo-German Fellowship, the Christian Fellowship, duped any number of highly placed Englishmen.

Female members of British society were induced to look kindly upon Hitler's aims by the flattering attention of handsome young German aristocrats. British visitors to Germany never lacked congenial guides.

The fact that the British police found it necessary to arrest a member of Parliament, Captain Ramsay, on the charge of having transmitted to the German legation at Dublin treasonable information given him by Tyler Kent, cipher clerk at the American embassy in London, would seem to show that some of the many finely spun threads from Berlin to London still remain. One hears hints of a persistent "pro-Germanism" in the London city.

CHANGE OF HEART

But it must be stated emphatically that the vast majority of the British, unlike the French, underwent radical change of heart after it became apparent that Hitler had duped Chamberlain at Munich, although there were still appeasers ready to try to bribe the Nazis to be good with a Hudson-Wohlthat plan for economic concessions to Germany. Moreover, with British patriotism at the white heat of today under threat of imminent invasion, the fate of confessed "Fifth Columnists" in Britain would be short and unenviable.

This time the British police were prepared for the war. At the opening of hostilities they jailed some 400 of the best German agents. Later raids tended to show that the backbone of the organization was broken then. The involuntary confinement of over a thousand Britishers, mostly followers of Mosley, further cleared the air.

All in all, foreigners in Britain have the impression that the several branches of the competent British police are masters of the situation, and that the British soul was never really tainted by Nazi propaganda. Everyone listens to Lord Hawhaw but his words arouse more laughter than belief. A nation that faces mortal peril with the grim joke: "Well, at least Britain has reached the finals!" seems sound.

Well Landed

LONDON, Aug. 23—"Where am I?" asked a British pilot when he made a forced landing in his bullet-riddled plane after an air battle off the south coast. Members of the Home Guard who ran to his aid told him the name of a village close by. "Oh, I've got an uncle living there," said the pilot, "I'll drop in to lunch." He did.

CASTOR

CASTOR HONORS PIONEER CITIZEN AT BIG BANQUET

A farewell banquet was held Wednesday by the citizens of Castor in honor of A. C. Moore, local station agent for the past 25 years. After the banquet the chairman, Mayor Barnes, called on many of the old-time citizens, who spoke expressing the regret that Castor was losing one who had been a great asset to the town, both in community life and social functions in connection with the church, Masonic lodge, Board of Trade, Elks lodge and Canadian Legion.

Fitting remarks were made by Ed. Sharpe, representing the Castor Legion; D. O. Frederickson for the church board; and H. C. Chapin, president of the Board of Trade, spoke on behalf of that organization. J. W. Lone made the presentation of silver service to Mr. Moore.

CROSSFIELD

The three days of national registration passed off very smoothly in the Crossfield division, with Mrs. Mabel Shantz and D. J. Hall serving as deputy registrars. A total of 498 people registered in the Masonic hall basement alone, with numerous other centres throughout the district. Monday was by far the busiest day, with over 300 registrants, who, for the most part, had their answers all prepared, and co-operated fully.

RED DEER

The Buchan Construction company, of Calgary, are going ahead with work on the militia training centre being built at Red Deer. R. Rasmussen is resident foreman and about 35 men are on the job at present. It is expected that this force will be increased to 200 shortly and the work will be pushed ahead so that the centre may be ready for operation by October 1. A new drill hall will be built, with a reinforced concrete rifle range at one end.

LLOYDMINSTER

THREE PIONEERS DIE IN DISTRICT OF LLOYDMINSTER

The Lloydminster district lost three of its oldest pioneers this week.

Funeral services for Howard Tingling, 67, an early settler in the Hewitts Landing, who came from Williamsport, Penn., in 1906 was held this week. Burial took place in the Albion cemetery with Harry Mumford conducting the service.

Edmound Gordon Jones, octogenarian of Blackfoot, six miles west of Lloydminster, passed away in the Lloydminster hospital recently. Born at London, Ont., in 1860, he moved to Boissevin, Man., where he married Matha Bawks in 1890. Funeral was held from the Lloydminster Baptist Church, Rev. R. F. Filer officiating.

Margaret Handal, 79, well-known resident of the Fort Pitt district, died following a brief illness. Since the death of her husband in 1935, she had made her home with her son, Otto, in the Gully district. Surviving are Otto, and one daughter Rosa, in Switzerland and several grandchildren. Funeral service was from Moore's funeral home, conducted by S. T. Steenson.

SYLVAN LAKE

National registration was carried out here without a hitch. Headquarters were at the Balmoral Tea Room. Twenty-two assistants worked under the guidance of the two deputies, A. Robertson and Capt. Sid De Barathy. A total of 1,297 cards are completed and on their way to the chief registrar at Innisfail for Red Deer constituency. 750 women and 547 men were registered. Monday saw the big rush and on that day 627 cards were completed.

Entertaining for the pleasure of her bride-elect daughter, Miss Ida Lane, whose marriage to Mr. George Green will take place in Montreal early in September, Mrs. Matthew Lane was hostess at a trousseau tea on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Floral decorations in pink were used throughout the reception rooms and a crystal bowl of pink clarkias graced the effectively-appointed tea tables. The cloth was in cream lace and tall cream tapers in crystal holders flanked the centrepiece on either side.

Wedding Vows Are Pledged At Red Deer

Leonard Gaetz Memorial Church in Red Deer was the scene of a pretty ceremony, claiming the interest of friends in Olds also on Wednesday afternoon when Byrul Stone, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stone pledged marriage vows with Michael J. Colgan of Olds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Colgan of Cranbourne, Quebec.

Rev. R. Ross officiated at the ceremony. Mr. D. Thatcher played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Mr. Stanley Edwards of Olds sang "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a graceful figure at her wedding, wearing a floor length frock of white French chiffon over taffeta. Fashioned with full skirt, her gown had a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and shirred bolero. Her chapel veil was held in place by a circlet of tiny pink rosebuds and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

ATTENDANT

Miss Marion McKinnon of Olds, attendant to the bride, wore a charming frock in blue chiffon, with tiny ruffles as trimming and bolero jacket. She carried pink roses in her bouquet.

Mr. Gardner Craig of Olds was best man. Ushers were Mr. B. Anderson and Mr. Earl Taggart of Olds.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Stone chose an attractive ensemble in dusty rose crepe and lace, with matching hat and corsage of pale pink rosebuds.

Forty guests were present at a reception arranged following the ceremony and for the occasion the home of the bride's parents was attractively decorated with pink and white sweet peas. Laid in ecru lace, the bride's table was centred by a tiered wedding cake, embedded in pink tulle, with vases of pink sweet peas on either side.

TO JASPER

Mr. Colgan and his bride left later by motor for Jasper, Banff and other mountain resorts. To travel Mrs. Colgan wore a frock in dusty rose with navy accessories and top coat in air force blue.

Upon their return they will take up residence in Olds.

MODERN CLOTHES CLOSET

You don't have to spend a great deal of money to have a clothes closet that looks like those marvelous ones you see in pictures. Don't have dingy closets these days when transparent dustproof materials may be purchased for as little as 25 cents a yard and stitched into handsome closet accessories right on your own sewing machine. Ruffled edgings for the shelves, tailored garment bags, even quilted hat boxes—all with professional-looking decorator finishes can be whipped up in a few hours by using the fool-proof modern sewing machine attachments. Instruction for using them is given at your local sewing center. This season, gay contrasting colors are being used by smart decorators—pink and baby blue, emerald green and gold, or lipstick red and white, are a few suggested combinations.

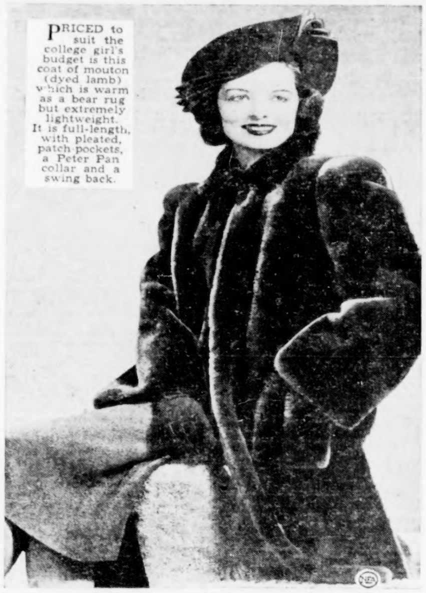
PRESIDENT GRANT'S INITIALS WERE NOT "U.S."

U. S. Grant never existed as a general or as an American President. The true initials of President Grant were H. U. His legal name was Hiram Ulysses Grant. When he applied for admission to West Point Military Academy, his papers were made out by a member of Congress who saw unique possibilities in the combination with the name of Hiram's mother, so he changed the name on the application to read "Ulysses Simpson Grant." The name stuck with Grant for life, and proved to be a great political asset to him, especially the initials, "U.S. Grant."



PRICED to suit the college girl's budget is this coat of mouton (dyed lamb) which is warm as a bear rug but extremely lightweight. It is full-length, with pleated, patch pockets, a Peter Pan collar and a swing back.

Pearl Fowler Is Bride Of Murray Warren

WIDE-SPREAD interest of friends in social and university cirles in Edmonton is coupled with that of many friends in Acme, Alberta, in the pretty ceremony solemnized in Acme on Wednesday of this week when Pearl Valarie Fowler, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Fowler of Acme became the bride of Murray Cannon Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Warren, Clifton Place, Edmonton. The ceremony performed at the home of the bride's parents, was conducted by Rev. Mr. Powell.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are well known in University of Alberta circles, the bride being presently enrolled in the faculty of medicine at the university. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity. The bridegroom, who has also attended the university has many friends in business circles in the city.

LOVELY FIGURE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wearing an afternoon frock of dusky pink crepe, and carrying a shower bouquet of deep-toned roses, was a lovely figure.

Attending her sister as bridesmaid, Miss Edna Fowler was gowned in a blue crepe dress, with a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Stewart Gillespie, of Edmonton, supported the bridegroom.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Fowler wore an afternoon frock of rose silk, with a contrasting hat of white straw, and a corsage of talisman roses. Mrs. Warren, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of blue silk, with smart white hat and talisman roses worn en corsage.

RECEPTION HELD

Following the marriage ceremony, a reception to 40 guests was arranged. Gladioli in varying shades made attractive floral decoration throughout the reception room and the bride's table, laid with a white lace cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked with pink tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren left later in the day by motor on a honeymoon trip to Jasper and Banff.

On their return, they will take up residence in Edmonton.

Guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Warren of Edmonton, parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Marshall, of Edmonton, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Which makes the better wife, the domestic girl or the business girl? Which should a man pick out for a life companion, the girl who has been Mamma's little helper and who is expert in performing on the gas range or the girl who has been a supersaleswoman or a crackerjack private secretary or who can play sonatas on an adding machine? That is a problem that many a young man who is contemplating matrimony lies awake of nights trying to solve, and one of them puts the matter up to me. He says: "I believe in marriage for men. I want to marry. I want a wife, and home, and children, but I don't want to make any mistake in picking out the woman I marry. And for the life of me I can't decide whether I would have a better chance of happiness with an old-fashioned home girl of the clinging-vine type or a modern young woman who is independent and makes her own living and who knows all the answers."

Well, of course, it all depends upon the girl, for strangely enough, the sort of a wife a girl makes doesn't depend so much upon whether she has been brought up in a kitchen or reared behind a counter as it does upon the amount of backbone she has and how much in love she is with the man she marries. All of us have seen domestic girls who are so fed up with cooking and dish-washing that they never even looked at a pot or pan after they were married. And we have seen girls who had never boiled an egg before marriage turn into model housekeepers after marriage.

Theoretically it would seem that the business girl should make the better wife because she has had a training in prompiness, accuracy, the value of money and how to soft-soap a boss that the domestic girl lacks. Also, having had experience in business and knowing how much toil and sweat and blood goes into the making of a dollar, she should be more sympathetic with her husband and better able to understand the trials of a Tired Business Man.

However, this does not seem to be the case, as a group of sociologists who have been looking into the matter have recently reported that no class of women get so many divorces as those do who have been business women before marriage.

This is due to many causes, the principal one of which, of course, is that they do not feel financially dependent upon their husbands. They can make their own bread and butter and so they can put on their hats and walk out if their wife-jobs prove unsatisfactory. They do not have to stick to a cantakerous and disagreeable man just because he is a meal ticket. They can roll their own.

Also, the woman who has once toted her own pocketbook always rebels at having to ask even a generous husband for money and give an account of where every dime went. And furthermore, the woman who has once worked in groups finds working alone in a home dull and boring.

But there are a thousand exceptions to these generalities, and whether a business girl or a domestic girl or any other kind of a girl makes a good wife depends in the last analysis, on how much she loves her husband.

Next time you see that handsome man admiring the view say enthusiastically, "I can't imagine a lovelier sight, can you?"

Your Baby And Mine

With a more widespread use of good diets and with vitamin D dosages daily, one seldom sees either bow-legs or knock-knees among privileged children. With a better understanding of the causes of these deformities one might hope to prevent them altogether.

"I have a baby girl of 15 months who has been walking since she was 11 months," writes Mrs. M.M. "My problem is that her left leg is bowed. My doctor said it was not bad enough for a brace. But it does spoil her good looks. I push them together and rub them with oil but it hasn't helped much. Is it possible that it may straighten up itself?"

Yes, if you provide the right diet for the child, give her sun-baths daily and furnish her with some efficient source of vitamin D. It is in the nature of bones to be straight. They bow out only when they are so deprived of essential food elements that they become soft and bend under the weight of the child.

Is she drinking enough milk? Milk is high in mineral elements needed by the bones and teeth. Does she get lots of fresh fruits and an assortment of vegetables? These also contain minerals. Does she get whole-grain cereals which provide those valuable minerals which are contained in the grain's outer coat? Whole wheat, oatmeal, barley, rice—the child needs these in the form of bread or cereal so that the bones may extract the vital minerals for their growth.

RICKETS MAY RESULT

And in addition to a good diet, if the child is denied sunshine, if the diet lacked cod liver oil or any of the vitamin D medicines which promote the ability of the bones to make use of these mineral foods, then rickets may result.

Rickets shows itself up in soft bones which bend out of position and teeth which decay easily and a nervous system which is unstable and "jittery." Such children are hard to please, restless and sleepless and given to spasms for small provocation.

The answer to a prevention of this nutritional ailment is the right diet plus sunshine and vitamin D.

The leaflet "Rickets," may be obtained by anyone who is interested. Send your request with a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department in care of this newspaper.

Myrtle Meyer Eldred will answer your questions about diet, general care and management of children if you will send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine Department in care of this newspaper.

Chicken, Roasts Are Traditional In Homes

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Chicken, mashed potatoes and ice cream are said to be the American symbols for "big eats" on Sunday. Chicken, either roasted, fried, broiled or fricasseed, seems to stand for success and high life in the average Canadian home. However, a recent study of what the average family likes to eat shows that roast beef, baked cured ham, fresh ham, leg or shoulder of veal also appear with regularity in the average Canadian home on Sunday.

A famous home economist has worked out three Sunday dinner menus:

1. (For family on liberal diet): Roast chicken with savory stuffing, baked yams (or sweet potatoes), creamed asparagus (or other creamed vegetables), head lettuce salad, ice cream with strawberry preserves, milk for children.

2. (For family on a moderate-cost adequate diet): Stewed chicken with rice, green beans, hot biscuits, ice cream with fruit sauce, milk for children, coffee for adults.

3. (For family on minimum-cost adequate diet): Shoulder pork chops, candied sweet potatoes, creamed spinach, bread and butter, sliced bananas, milk for children, tea or coffee for adults.

A two-rib roast of beef is regal eating and can be considered economical enough for the liberal budget if none is wasted. Cook it with intelligence, not guesswork. Buy at least a 2-rib or 4-pound roast. Allow ½ to ¾ pounds to a serving.

Season roast with salt and pepper and a little dry mustard. Stand ribs, fat side up, in an open pan. The ribs form a rack. Use a meat thermometer. It is the only reliable test. Insert thermometer so that bulb is in the center of the thickest muscle. Roast to temperature indicated on thermometer. Ten minutes per pound is a good guide rule. However, size, shape, fat covering and initial temperature of the roast influence cooking period. Roast in a slow oven (325d. F.) for the following approximate time: rare—2½ hours for 5 pounds, or 3 hours for 8 pounds, or until thermometer registers 140d. F. Medium—2¾ hours for 5 pounds, or 3½ hours for 8 pounds, or until meat thermometer registers 160d. F. Well done—3 hours for 5 pounds, or 4½ hours for 8 pounds, or until meat thermometer registers 170d. F.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Honeydew melon with lemon slice, fried ham, creamed potatoes, popovers, apple jelly, coffee, milk.

Dinner: Watermelon cup, rib roast of beef, brown gravy, pan-browned potatoes, green peas, green corn, radishes, fresh peach ice cream macaroons, coffee, milk.

Supper: Cream of corn soup in cups, fresh fruit salad, hot biscuits, chocolate cream tarts, tea, milk.

What To Do

At a wedding breakfast where a horseshoe-shaped table is used the bride and bridegroom, of course, are seated at the head of the horseshoe; the bride on the bridegroom's right, the maid of honor on the bridegroom's left and the best man on the bride's right. There are to be no other attendants. Where is the correct place for the bridegroom's mother? Also the bride's? Thank you.

A READER.

Answer—You do not mention the officiating clergyman and his wife in your line-up of guests, but I am assuming they will be invited to the wedding breakfast too. As far as you have gone the seating arrangement gets off to a perfect start. At a large reception the bride and bridegroom's parents have a separate table with the immediate relatives and older friends of the family. But when the wedding party includes only two attendants the bride's mother is seated to the right of the best man, the father of the bridegroom to her right, next the wife of the clergyman. To the left of the maid of honor place the bride's father, next the bridegroom's mother and then the clergyman.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—After five consecutive rising sessions stocks generally dipped their colors to profit takers in today's market. In the final hour losses for steels, motors and other leaders ranged from 1 to 2 points or so. There were scattered exceptions that managed to emerge with modest gains.

Prominent on the retreat were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Lockheed, International Paper Pfd., Union Carbide, Du Pont, Anaconda and Phelps Dodge.

International Nickel displayed resistance, but other strong Canadian stocks of Thursday did virtually nothing.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

8-23

Winsome Paulette Goddard was chosen by a group of artists as representative of the new order of film figures. She is normal weight and curvesome.

Now that our American movie makers are looking southward for their market, we can expect to see a change in the screenlined figure. The Latins like 'em with curves—not grossly overweight, you understand, but definitely with the femine figure!

And from the New York reception given Carmen Miranda, the Brazilian songbird, last season, it appears we like them that way ourselves. Miss Miranda is a dazzling bundle of vivacity who tips the scales in the 120's for her height of five feet, three inches, and she has a gorgeous figure.

Her style offers quite a contrast to the beauty of some of our American stars—take Loretta Young, Anita Louise, Katherine Hepburn, ad infinitum! Or British Vivian Leigh and Gertrude Lawrence, or French Danielle Darrieux! Or Scandinavian Vera Zorina! Having interviewed these girls, I can tell you that lovely as they are, they would be even more attractive for 10 more pounds. This holds true for a good percentage of the movie stars. They are just a shade too thin.

Signs of the coming change are already apparent. It seems that every time a group of connoisseurs gets together to nominate the leading American beauty, she turns out to be Paulette Goddard! Just recently, six outstanding American artists added their approbation by naming Miss Goddard as the girl with the ideal face and figure for the films. I have given you the statistics on Miss Goddard before—I picked her myself sometime back when asked to make my selection of the movie star with the most beautiful figure.

Miss Goddard is neither too thin nor fat. Here are her specifications—Bust, 34 inches; waist, 24½ inches; hips, 34 inches; thigh, 19 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, seven and one-half inches. She never lets her weight go below 112 pounds, which is about normal for her height and structure.

Miss Goddard is an excellent representative of the ideal American girl. She's the outdoor type. She loves sports of all kinds. She drinks a quart of milk a day, but eats no sweets or pastries.

With the South American fans agitating for more curvesome figures, it's highly probable that our screen stars will allow themselves a bit more margin in the matter of weight, and they will get a healthier example for the rest of the feminine world.

Blood Serum

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Concentrated blood serum, formed from blood donated by Toronto citizens, was used with remarkable success in the treatment of British soldiers wounded in the evacuation of Dunkirque, according to word received here by Dr. C. H. Best, of the University of Toronto.

PERSONNEL OF CANADA-U.S. BOARD NAMED

Prime Minister, President Appoint Members To Study Defence

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—A constitutional lawyer, a senior officer from each of the three defence services and a counsellor of external affairs constitute Canada's representation on the joint board of defence for Canada and the United States personnel of which was announced Thursday night.

The announcement was made simultaneously in Ottawa by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and in Washington by President Roosevelt. The decision to set up the board was reached at a conference between the Prime Minister and the President at Ogdensburg, N.Y., last Saturday and Sunday. The board will hold its first meeting in Ottawa, Aug. 26.

OTTAWA'S LIST

The Canadian appointees are: O. M. Biggar, K.C., Ottawa; Brig. Kenneth Stuart, D.S.O., M.C., deputy chief of the general staff; Capt. L. W. Murray, R.C.N., deputy chief of the naval staff; Air Commodore A. A. L. Cuffe, R.C.A.F., air member, air staff; secretary, H. L. Keenleyside, counsellor, department of external affairs.

Alternates to take the place of or to assist the three service members of the Canadian panel will be selected later.

AMERICANS LISTED

This list of United States appointments follows: Fiorella H. Laguardia, Mayor of New York, president, council of mayors; Lieut. General Embick, U.S. army, commander of the Atlantic division; Capt. Harry W. Hill, U.S.N., war plan division-operations; Secretary, John D. Hickerson, assistant chief of the European division of the state department.

Alternates: Commander F. P. Sherman, U.S.N., and Lt.-Col. MacNarney, U.S. army.

The Prime Minister told a press conference Tuesday the function of the joint board would be to study and develop plans to protect North America from attack. It would make suggestions and consider the merits and demerits of various proposals.

The board will submit its suggestions to the two governments and it will be for the governments to put the suggestions into effect. Until the Canadian government is prepared to implement these suggestions it is not considered necessary to assemble parliament and accordingly unless something unexpected happens parliament will not be called until Nov. 5, the date fixed when parliament adjourned.

General satisfaction was expressed here that the Mayor of New York tops the list of United States appointments. An aggressive outspoken man he made a deep impression in government circles on his visit to Ottawa in June when he addressed a meeting of the Canadian federation of mayors and municipalities.

TWO BROTHERS THOUGHT DEAD MEET IN EAST

HALIFAX, Aug. 23.—Separated for two decades and each believing the other dead, two Nova Scotia-born brothers have met again. It was the Royal Canadian Navy that brought it about.

Frank Swaine, native of Canso, was reported killed while fighting with the Canadian forces in France in the first Great War. His brother, John, born at Arichat, did not hear from him. Frank, on the other hand, believed his younger brother had frozen to death in a cold storage plant at Canso.

Frank spent the last 20 years in the United States army and the merchant marine. The younger brother was cow-punching in Alberta.

They met this week on the parade grounds of the Royal Canadian Navy here. John said he recognized his brother immediately.

R.C.M.P. HOLD MAN REFUSING TO REGISTER

A fanatic who appeared at R.C.M.P. barracks here and declared he did not "intend to register," is still being detained pending instructions from Ottawa, offices of the R.C.M.P. here announced Friday. The man was charged formally with vagrancy, after stating he had no fixed abode.

His boasts of the fact that he had not registered and that it was against his principles to do so, have led to a suspicion that he may be suffering from some form of mental derangement.

In the meantime there have been no further reports of persons refusing to register to either R.C.M.P. or city police headquarters.

Several telephone calls have been made to city police by persons asking what to do in the case of lost registration cards.

Sgt. Ed. Watson had a registration slip brought in bearing the name of a woman who had registered just one hour before. It was found on the street. The owner was located.

Classes Planned To Aid Would-Be Fliers To Get Qualifications

Here's news that will interest a large number of young men who are available for enlistment as air crew men in the R.C.A.F. but are not able to qualify in respect to education though otherwise suitable.

The Canadian Legion has put forward a proposal, under which nightly educational classes may be conducted at the larger centres of population, and attendance at these classes would enable these young men to improve their education to the required standard.

Flying Officer William Thompson, M.C., D.F.C., officer in charge of the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre here, is anxious to obtain before August 31, some idea of the number in the Edmonton district likely to avail themselves of such an opportunity.

WANT NAMES

The Canadian Legion Educational Services, sponsoring body of this scheme, desires to have the total possible number who are interested in this proposal as soon as possible, so that classes can be started in the early fall. All who are interested in the scheme should make application at once to the R.C.A.F. recruiting office in the Provincial (Kelly-Ramsey) Building on 101A avenue and 100 street.

Under the proposed plan these classes would be free to those suitable and waiting for enlistment. The classes would prove of value to those in possession of the necessary educational standing but, having been away from school for a long time, wish to study mathematics or other necessary subjects.

Other men who have almost attained the necessary educational qualifications but are still ineligible for enlistment are also urged to take advantage of this offer.

Applicants for air gunner work require a complete Grade 10 education, while those desiring air pilot and observer positions require Grade 11 standing.

THE QUESTION

"Do you think we will have an Indian summer this year?"

THE ANSWERS

DR. E. A. ROE, osteopath: Certainly we'll have an Indian summer. We are due some recompense for the lack of a real summer this year. It will probably be along some time in October.

* * *

GRETA BOYLE, librarian: I hope so. The Indian summer is one of the best times of the year for riding and hiking.

* * *

BILL NIXON, clerk: Of course there will be an Indian summer. Why? Because we always have one!

* * *

BUNTY NAIRN, stenographer: An Indian summer would be a good thing. I can stand a long wait until winter comes.

Wholesale Firm Holds Picnic At Lakeview Resort

Staff and friends of the Merco Wholesale Ltd., staged their season's outing Wednesday at Lakeview. With a big crowd on hand, several feature events were carried off in great style. In the softball game, the single folk defeated the married. Other highlights of the gathering were a tug-of-war contest, horseshoe pitching tournament, pie-eating contest, novelty races and weight guessing event.

Ald. Doug. Grout called the events and directed the evening sing-song. Prizes were donated by various city firms.

What Eye Troubles Arise During School Years?

By Jackson Bros., Optometrist

First of all, Short Sight or Myopia. Children in spite of all their teachers' advice, lean over their books, and take up an awkward writing position, so that their eyes are unconsciously strained, and by the end of the day are definitely tired. In the case of day pupils this straining to accommodate the eyes to an awkward position, often with the book almost sideways on the desk, is repeated during the evening homework, and aggravated by unsatisfactory lighting and unsuitable chairs or tables.

In their free time they devour books, the print of which is often too small. Very young children spell out their reading letter by letter, concentrating intently on the letters and dazzled by highly glazed pages of crudely colored pictures. In patients already predisposed to eye trobules such straining of the eyes may, and frequently does lead to a degree of progressive short sightedness where serious complications may develop. Government statistics in many countries have shown that short sightedness develops most rapidly during school years. It is more frequent among pupils in the top classes. On the other hand, it is less frequent among pupils whose health is well cared for at home. Short sight is seldom an unavoidable evil.

Care of the eyes in youth is vitally necessary, if you want that boy or girl of yours to reach the heights you so desire of them. Don't neglect their eyes. Have them examined at regular intervals. It will pay you.

Visit our eyesight clinic which is open every day except Sundays and holidays.

If you require glasses you may have the use of them, while paying for them, by using our well established easy payment plan in weekly or monthly payments.

Will Retire

ALD. HUGH JOHN MACDONALD, K.C., M.L.A., who Friday announced that he would not seek re-election to the city council at the November municipal elections. Ald. Macdonald has served continuously on the city council for the past six years. First elected in 1934 at the head of the poll, he repeated as leader of the aldermanic vote in 1936 and 1938.

ALDERMAN NOT TO CONTEST CITY COUNCIL SEAT

Announcement was made Friday by Alderman Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., M.L.A., that he would not be a candidate in the November municipal election. He has sat continuously on council for the past six years.

First elected on the Citizen's slate in 1934 Mr. Macdonald, although making his first appeal to Edmontonians for office, was returned at the head of the poll. He repeated this success in the elections of 1936 and 1938, leading the poll on each occasion.

At the provincial election in March last Mr. Macdonald was elected to the legislature as a Liberal running on the Independent ticket.

Pressure of private business and his legislative duties are given as reasons for not seeking re-election to city council.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Charlotte Burden, 93, of 10524 124 street, were held Friday at 10:30 a.m. at Howard & McBride's chapel. Rev. F. A. Smith officiated and interment took place in the Edmonton cemetery. Mrs. Burden leaves one daughter, Mrs. C. J. McMillan, and two grandchildren, Pat and George McMillan, all of Edmonton. She was predeceased by her husband George Burden and her son, George T. Burden of the N.W.M.P.

There are 20,000 registered brands in use in Alberta at present, according to a statement issued Friday by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture. During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1940 about 410,000 head of cattle were inspected for brands by officials of the livestock branch, department of agriculture, and officers of the R.C.M.P. It is contrary to the Brand Act for anyone to use a brand which is not officially recorded in the department of agriculture, and steps are now being taken to prosecute offenders.

REGISTRATION CARDS ALREADY LOST BY MANY

Although being without a registration certificate might mean unpleasantness with the police or the possible dismissal from employment it is remarkable how many persons have lost or mislaid theirs since issuance at the national stock-taking which concluded on Wednesday night.

Numerous requests have been received by registrars in both Edmonton East and Edmonton West ridings for new certificates. The usual story given the registrars when the request for a reissue is "Oh! I have lost that little card I was given, can I get another one?"

Those who have lost, mislaid or destroyed their registration certificates can get duplicates only from the Dominion Statistician at Ottawa. When writing for a reissue it is necessary to give the name of the constituency in which you were registered, its number and the number of the registration station attended during the registration period.

THREE FACE HEARING FOR BURGLARY TRY

Accused Charged With Attempting To Break Into Strand Building

Trial in supreme criminal court was ordered for Daniel Brent, Kenneth Abbott and George Barnard on a charge of attempting to break into the premises of the Strand Theatre after the trio faced preliminary hearing in police court Friday.

Magistrate Millar committed the three for trial after rejecting a plea of defence counsel A. W. Miller for dismissal of Brent on the grounds of doubtful identification.

Const. Kirk told of capturing Abbott and Barnard after a chase up a back lane on 105 street near Jasper Avenue. Brent was arrested later. The three were allegedly seen by Special Const. Gray, tampering with a door in the office of the Strand Theatre.

ASKED TO IDENTIFY

When asked if he could identify the "tall man" he saw at the theatre door, Gray pointed to Gordon Bennett, who was in the prisoner's dock on another charge.

On the other hand, Const. Kirk was positive that Brent was one of the men pointed out by Gray on the night of the alleged burglary attempt.

In committing instead of remanding, Magistrate Millar said he had in mind the fact that two of the three already face several charges in supreme court.

DIFFERENT PROCEDURE

In the case of a committal an accused must apply to a judge of the supreme court for bail, instead of having it set by a police magistrate.

Brent and Abbott are scheduled to stand trial at the September sittings of the supreme court on charges arising out of the $10,000 jewelry robbery of the Henry Birks and Son store last spring.

Better Keep That Umbrella Within Grabbing Distance

Early morning showers Friday sort of dampened the spirits of John Citizen as he wended his way between puddles on his walk to work. But there is a certain amount of uncalled for depression of spirit on the part of John Citizen as the official forecast calls for "fair weather; not much change in temperature" with only "probable showers". It would be a good idea to keep that umbrella handy, just in case, though.

High temperature Thursday was 70 above, while the low for the day was 52 above. Temperature at 8:30 a.m. Friday was 52 above while the barometric pressure was 27.65 steady.

Skies were overcast at McMurray, High Prairie and Notikewin. All points in the near north reported smoky atmosphere with a general calm prevailing.

In central and northern Alberta a touch of frost is noticeable on many gardens but grain crops have not been damaged, according to the report of the Canadian National Railways. Heavy winds in some localities have lodged grain. Moisture conditions generally satisfactory. Warm dry weather is maturing crops very rapidly and cutting should commence before the end of August.

Along the Northern Alberta Railways and in the Peace River district, weather has been warm and dry with grain ripening very fast. Cutting has started and will be general in a few days. There is no damage from any source.

149 Families Are Settled On Farms Under Relief Plan

Announcement was made by the provincial government Friday that 149 families were settled on farms under the Relief Settlement plan during 1939. The statement was issued by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture.

There are now 684 families residing on farms placed through this relief plan. Many of these families are now completely self-supporting.

Settlement during the present year has not been as heavy as in 1939, due to improved employment conditions.

The scheme is operated under an agreement to which Dominion, provincial and municipal governments subscribe.

A meeting of the gas committee of city council will be held Tuesday next at 3 p.m. at which representative of the Northwestern Utilities Ltd. will continue negotiations for a lower gas rate for Edmonton consumers.

Big Bad Bat Causes Hysteria In Cafe As He Seeks Sanctuary

By JACK DeLONG

Fortunately we require no air raid shelters or cyclone cellars in this sun-bathed city of Edmonton, but for about half an hour Thursday night in a popular 101 street eating establishment, both could have been used to advantage.

No! there weren't any super-long range bombers droning over downtown Edmonton, although we doubt if a whole fleet of Hitlerian Stukas would have created more in the way of panic.

What really happened was that a bat—that little fuzzy creature which at some time or other forgot it was intended to be a mouse and by means of animal black magic or auto-suggestion, sprouted a pair of wings—invaded an eating place just when the after-theatre rush was at its height.

A piercing feminine shriek emitted by the head waitress, announced the arrival of the lone raider, who zoomed in from the back door and then dived toward a row of stacked dishes and canned goods on a shelf behind the counter.

DIRE PREDICTIONS

"A bat! A bat! It'll get in your hair; it'll suck blood from your throat; it'll kill you," were just a few of the dire predictions shrilled by the staff and later taken up by some of the customers.

In the meantime this "monster," this mouse that flies like a bird, hid behind a row of canned goods.

The staff had long since evacuated positions behind the counter and were out in the middle of the cafe with anxious eyes fixed on the exits. Nobody would go back to work until the bat was known to have been removed or exterminated.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

It was a clear case for volunteers and there wasn't any mad rush among the male patrons who were in attendance in goodly numbers. Finally a youth, in a filling station attendant's uniform, squared his jaw, cast a glance of adoration in the direction of the sweet young bat-shy waitress, and humming, "Who's afraid of the big bad bat?" seized a carving knife and entered the dread "no-woman's" land behind the counter.

Poking cautiously he removed all the canned goods; then all the dishes. Still no bat.

"You must be batty; but there wasn't anything," one of the customers wise-cracked.

Suddenly there was a whirr of wings in a waste box near the Back. Calling for help our hero charged, grabbed the box under his arm and hit for the back door.

The bat flew away into the night. The all-clear signal was sounded and the normal business of eating resumed.

Magazine Publicizes Jasper Park Scenery With Special Feature

Captioned "Life Goes to Jasper Park in the Canadian Rockies," Life Magazine this week presents a photographic essay of scenery and attractions at Jasper National Park, with the sub-title, "Farthest north resort is tops in scenery."

The photographs, showing the exalting mountain views, the swimming and skiing sports which take place in the same season and the young collegians who staff Jasper Park Lodge, were taken this summer by Life's photographer, Horace Bristol. Ronnie Schiller is the writer.

The park trip was arranged through the co-operation of Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Dan E. C. Campbell, public relations officer for the Alberta government.

Assistance was also given by Robert "Bob" Sommerville, manager of the Jasper Park Lodge, and Harry Rowed, C.N.R. photographer.

The cover of Life, captioned "Boy and Girl in Rockies," shows two young members of the Lodge staff reclining in the sun against the logs of a Lodge building, reading mail from home. They are Bob Gage and Dorothy Dale, a waitress in summer, coed in winter.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

The first picture in the series on the inside pages is a full-page beautiful photo of Mt. Edith Cavel with four young Canadians trudging up its slope in the wake of a Swiss guide.

A brief history of the park is given by Life, as follows:

"Jasper National Park was not very long ago a wilderness of forest and snow where only fur traders and missionaries trod silent Athabaska trails to British Columbia and the far west coast. Originally known as the land of Glittering Mountains, bigger than the state of Connecticut, it was designated by Canada as a national park in 1907 but not till 1922 did it really become accessible.

"In that year the Canadian National Railways built Jasper Lodge on the glacial waters of Lac Beauvert, hauled in trainloads of topsoil from Edmonton, 200 miles away, for a golf course, dug swimming pools at the hot sulphur springs, imported mountain guides and ski masters for tourists. Today Jasper is one of the most perfectly equipped, one of the most scenically spectacular resorts in the world.

"Pack-train trips take visitors through primeval fir valleys to peaks where they may camp overnight in tepees. In the great Columbia ice fields they may view strange glacial formations, watch bear, elk, moose, deer and mountain goats forage in the woods. In clear glacial streams they may fish for speckled trout. Across Canada's new scenic highway they may motor 180 miles to Banff where Canadian Pacific, Canadian National's rival runs a rival resort below Lake Louise. Or, in tingling northern air they may just sit and rest, served by a staff of handsome Canadian collegians, many of whom are sons and daughters of Canadian National's officials."

Mr. Campbell stated that Life's photographer also took pictures of Henry Fonda, motion picture star and his wife, fishing at Jasper. These pictures have been released by Life and will be published in some 1,400 daily newspapers and other periodicals in the United States.

Other pictures of Alberta's industrial and agricultural life were taken by Life during the magazine men's visit to the province and it is planned to use them in a future edition.

Chief Pilot North Sawle, Canadian Airways, landed at the river base, Edmonton, Friday, from Fort McMurray, where he spent the night on a southbound trip from Yellowknife. Aboard were six passengers, including Rev. H. A. McLeod and A. J. Smith, vice-president of Abasand Oils, Ltd.

Smoke was heavy throughout the north on Friday and was holding pilots grounded at many points. Pilot Sawle found the haze thick for 20 miles out of McMurray but visibility cleared for the remainder of the trip and he radioed back reports to enable other planes to follow him.

Chief Pilot Bob Randall, Mackenzie Air Service, and Al Broom were waiting at Yellowknife Friday morning for the smoke to clear. Archie McMullen was at Big Eddy, near Fort Resolution, looking for clear weather before proceeding north to Yellowknife from Fort Smith.

Annual meeting of the Citizens Committee will be held September 24 at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected and plans for the November civic elections will be discussed. Decision to hold this meeting was made at an executive meeting held Thursday evening. Place of the meeting will be announced within the next few days, John D. Dower, president, announced.

PERMITS UP TO $73,200 ON BUILDING

Gainers Ltd. Plan $50,000 Reconstruction Following Fire

Edmonton's building permits soared to $73,200 Friday as Gainers, Ltd. took out a permit for $50,000 for the rebuilding of the engine house, shipping dock, smoke and processing rooms destroyed in a recent fire. Permits were also taken out for the erection of eight dwellings.

Three permits were issued to Geo. Prudham, Edmonton contractor, for the erection of three houses on 85 avenue, the total cost of which would be $14,000.

E. B. Gardiner, 9515 147 street, was given a permit to erect a frame and stucco dwelling at a cost of $2,000. A permit was issued to Mrs. R. G. Srigley, 11244 71 street, for a dwelling costing $1,500.

A $2,700 frame and stucco building will be erected by S. C. Rodney at 11417 101 avenue, and at 11415 101 avenue, H. Falkenberg will build a $2,000 frame dwelling.

A frame house valued at $1,000 will be built by Harold Lee at 12004 79 street.

More than 3,000 shotguns and rifles had been registered by about 1,000 Edmonton residents at city police headquarters up until Thursday evening. Acting Chief Const. Matthew Blackwood again desires to inform persons with guns to register that they must make a personal appearance at the police station for registration. Police can not make registration of weapons on mailed or telephone requests. Registration continues until September 15.

Jasper Publicity

DAN E. C. CAMPBELL, public relations officer of the Alberta government who accompanied Life's photographer Horace Bristol when he took pictures of Jasper Park which are appearing in Life magazine this week.

Gerden Bennett, charged with a burglary attempt, had the hearing adjourned until next Tuesday morning when he appeared before Magistrate Millar in police court Friday.

* * *

Yesterday: The officers catch Rhoda as she boards a plane. Later, O'Leary inspects the study again, finds two books misplaced. He calls Dale, orders the five guests to be at the house that night. "I believe I know who murdered Martin Sayler!"

CHAPTER XI

SERGEANT CARROLL sensed, when he stepped into the Sayler study that night, that the involuntary guests were not in the most jovial of moods. O'Leary had not yet arrived. Dale Appleby was being as gracious as his nervousness permitted.

Rhoda Waters sat by herself, in a large overstuffed chair, which had been arranged earlier by Lieutenant O'Leary to face Sayler's desk in the corner of the room. A divan and several occasional chairs had also been lined up, and the other guests sat there now in glowering silence.

Winslow Mardell still wore the emblazoned sports costume he had on when the officers accosted him in his hotel earlier in the day. His lips were twisted into a satirical smile. George Barbour leaned quietly back on one end of the divan and displayed his discomfort only by nervously flicking at his cigar.

At the opposite end of the divan sat Hazel Leighton, grimly reticent, smoking irritably and glancing antagonistically at the complacent sergeant from time to time.

Carroll was relieved when O'Leary finally appeared. Following the lieutenant were two uniformed officers, and between them walked the sullen Riggs, chauffeur for the late Martin Sayler.

Those in the study fixed their attention on Riggs, who refused to look up from the floor. O'Leary directed the officers to seat Riggs in a chair on the north side of the room. Both policemen stood nearby. O'Leary went to the doorway to speak to Willows, the butler, and in a few minutes, half a dozen servants trooped into the room. Diffidently, they looked at the guests and then seated themselves in a row behind the others.

Slowly, O'Leary walked to the desk and sat down in Sayler's swivel chair. He turned on the desk lamp and leaned both elbows on the top of the desk.

"If this is supposed to be a night class in criminology, I'd just as soon skip it," Mardell said.

Barbour pulled out his breast-pocket handkerchief and unfurled it with great ceremony. He began wiping a pair of steel-rimmed glasses he took from a case. "Can't we get this over with?" he asked, annoyed. "We've all been subjected to an extremely unpleasant ordeal. Why prolong it?" He looked at Riggs. "I should think you could conclude this case, Lieutenant, without further assistance."

"You're a lawyer," O'Leary said. "You can appreciate that we need evidence."

"Suppose you begin, Lieutenant," Dale suggested. He leaned over and whispered something in Rhoda's ear.

"All right," O'Leary said, and he leaned back in his chair and took a pencil from his pocket and twirled it between his fingers. "I'll get this over with as quickly as I can. Please be patient. Since last night, a number of things have occurred, and I think I've found a few answers to some things I didn't know yesterday.

"I wanted you all to be here tonight partly because there are a few more gaps I want to fill in, and there are a few more questions." He looked at Rhoda. "Miss Waters, you were about to leave town this afternoon because, as you said, you wanted to meet Mr. Appleby later in New York and be married. That isn't true, is it?"

Rhoda jumped to her feet. "What do you mean—?"

"I mean you were getting out because you were afraid — afraid of what might happen if you stayed. Isn't that right?"

All the color drained from Rhoda's cheeks and her fists were tightly drawn. Dale had clasped her by the shoulders and was frowning. "That isn't true," she screamed. "You know that isn't true. I have nothing to fear. Not from you or anybody."

O'Leary sighed. "Please don't become excited. There's nothing to be excited about—yet. I just wanted to know."

Angrily Rhoda sat down. Dale looked worried. He ran his fingers rapidly through his hair.

O'Leary turned to Mardell. "You frequent the Rainbow Club, Mr. Mardell?"

Mardell jerked to attention and glared fiercely. "What if I do?"

"Why did you tell certain people around the club that you wouldn't need to worry about the I.O.U.'s Sayler held against you—after last night?"

Mardell shifted uneasily. "How do you know that?"

"There are ways. How about it?"

"I didn't mean what you think," Mardell said evasively.

O'Leary nodded. "All right. Mr. Barbour, how well do you know this house?"

"Why I—I'm not sure I know what you mean," Barbour stammered.

"Did you ever spend any of your nights here?"

"Yes, of course. Martin and I were partners, and he asked me often to stay overnight."

"Lately?"

Barbour's cheeks quivered slightly. "Yes, a few times. We had some business to go over as you know. Sometimes it was rather late and I stayed over."

"Thank you. Miss Leighton, I have reason to believe you know this place pretty well. I'm told on several occasions you called when Mr. Sayler was out and that you spent several hours in here by yourself because you insisted on waiting."

The blonde woman glared defiantly at O'Leary. "What of it? I was welcome here."

"Perhaps you were. There wasn't anything you were particularly interested in inside the house, was there?"

"Of course not."

O'Leary bent forward over the desk and took in the entire room with one searching sweep of his eyes. The servants, ill at ease, rustled restlessly in their chairs.

"There are two things you ought to know," the lieutenant said. "They will change your opinion of this case. First, Riggs is not guilty of the murder of Martin Sayler, and second—someone else in this room is."

A small shriek escaped the lips of Hazel Leighton. Everyone in the room jerked a little with the shock of O'Leary's announcement. The servants stared at him incredulously for a moment to see whether he might be jesting, and then a fear-stricken maid uttered a piercing shriek and slipped to the floor in a faint.

One of the policemen rushed to her side. He ordered Willows to get a glass of water. Dale was pacing within a small space behind Rhoda's chair, as he looked down anxiously at the girl who sat in silent horror. Barbour had walked to the window near O'Leary's desk and was peering outside into the summer blackness.

It was several moments before the confusion subsided. The maid, still pale but conscious, begged to be allowed to remain. Sergeant Carroll had walked over to the desk and was sitting in a chair near O'Leary. Barbour was the last to take his seat.

Dale stood erect now, behind Rhoda. "Why don't you end this torture, Lieutenant? Get it over with."

"It'll be over soon enough," O'Leary said. "Let me tell you about it. The murderer was very clever. But the trouble with smart murderers is that they usually forget some little thing.

"In this case, the killer forgot that Martin Sayler was a very fastidious man. He was almost eccentric in that way. He liked everything in order. Everything neat, always exactly the same. His books, for instance. He wouldn't tolerate having any book out of place or moved an inch out of line from the others. Every volume had its exact spot.

"That was where our murderer slipped up."

O'Leary had the rapt attention of everyone in the room now.

"You see, this murderer had a unique problem on his hands. He, or she, had to be in this room to shoot Martin Sayler at the same time that the same murderer was in the other room with the rest of you. That would eliminate suspicion. It wasn't easy, but the killer figured it out. Would you like to know how?"

There was breathless, fearful expectation written on most of the faces in the room. Rhoda Waters was frankly holding on tightly to Dale Appleby's hand and Hazel Leighton was letting her cigarette burn dangerously close to her fingers. Mardell's face was spotted with little beads of sweat.

Barbour took off his glasses and put them carefully in his pocket. Then he stood up and stepped into the centre of the room. He opened his coat, and thrust his pudgy hands into his trousers' pockets.

"Lieutenant, before you go any further, there's something I want to ask you," he said. He started walking toward the desk. "I wondered if—"

From somewhere near the window, a muffled report, like the clapping of someone's hands, caused everyone to turn. And in that instant, George Barbour, a twisted, tortured smile on his white, pasty face, slumped to the floor and lay sprawled on his back. On the starched white front of his shirt, a large red blotch was growing bigger and bigger.

Boss Morgan Pitches To Even Title Series

SKIPPER RALPH MORGAN took personal control of the Dodger helm last night by going to the pitching slab himself and he piloted his club to a brilliant 5-0 win over Ponoka to even the best of five series for the championship of the Central Alberta Baseball League at one win apiece. Ponoka took the opener on Wednesday 4-0.

Virgil Neis drew the pitching assignment for the Stampeders and turned in one of the wildest nights he has had here. He gave four bases on balls and had two consecutive balls called on him that walked one Dodger run in. The Morgan men reached him for four singles and a double, earning three of their five runs.

Ralph Morgan on the [illegible] turned in his best pitching job of the season. He was nicked for only three hits and it was a toss-up whether one of these was a hit or an error. He didn't give a single base on balls. In five of the nine innings he pitched, only three Stam- [illegible]

Only U.S. Owned Horses Shipped From England

LONDON, Aug. 23.—William Gallacher, Communist member of the House of Commons, charged last night that rich sportsmen were sending thoroughbred horses out of the country while shipping space was unavailable to remove children.

One owner recently shipped 12 horses on the ship American Farmer at a cost of $400 per head, he said.

Sir Arthur Salter, parliamentary secretary of the shipping ministry, replied that the American Farmer, which now sails under a Belgian flag, was trading on her owner's account and the ministry of shipping had no control over her.

He added the ship was fitted especially for horses, not for the transport of children.

The Thoroughbred Breeders' Association meanwhile said 100 horses—"every one of them the property of American citizens"—had been shipped from the British Isles since July 1, and added:

"No English owner has thought of sending horses out of the country despite almost endless requests from the United States."

Swim Gala Tonight

The final swim gala of the year will be held at the East End pool tonight with a full program of events. The rivalry between the three swimming clubs of the city will no doubt be renewed and as this will be the last chance the swimmers will have to "get back" at some of their rivals. There is no doubt of there being plenty of keen competition.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 23.—Top-seeded Frank Parker and Don McNeill stroked into a 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 win over William Reedy and Kenneth Bartell without much exertion but unseeded teams in both the men's and women's divisions staged surprising upsets to crash the semi-finals of the United States doubles tennis tournament on Thursday.

The nearest to an overturn in the other divisions was in the mixed when Mrs. Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., gained a 6-4, 6-4 win over Miss Mary Hardwick of Britain and Charles Mattman.

THE outlook wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day;
The score stood four to two, with but one inning more to play;
And so, when Cooney died at first, and Burrows did the same,
A sickly silence fell upon the patrons of the game.

But Flynn let drive a single, to the wonderment of all,
And Blake, the much despised, tore the cover off the ball;
And when the dust had lifted, and they saw what had occurred,
There was Jimmy safe on second, and Flynn a-hugging third.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place,
There was pride in Casey's bearing, and a smile on Casey's face;
And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

And now the leather-covered sphere came hurtling through the air,
And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there;
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped.
"That ain't my style," said Casey. "Strike one," the umpire said.

With a smile of Christian charity great Casey's visage shone;
He stilled the rising tumult; he bade the game go on;
He signaled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew,
But Casey still ignored it, and the umpire said "Strike two."

The sneer is gone from Casey's lips, his teeth are clenched in hate;
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate;
And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he lets it go,
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

Oh! somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright,
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout,
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey has struck out.

Mighty Casey Mourns Poet's Death

SILVER SPRING, Md., Aug. 23.—There was sadness in Silver Spring today, for the "Mighty Casey" had just learned that Ernest L. Thayer was dead.

"I think that Mr. Thayer always thought I was mad at him for writing that poem," said 77-year-old Daniel M. Casey. "I want everybody to know I wasn't."

Thayer, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage in Santa Barbara, Calif., Wednesday, published the famous Casey at the Bat—which became an American classic—in 1888.

He never admitted that he had any particular ball player in mind when he penned his account of the strikeout that plunged Mudville into despair, but Dan Casey believes an incident in his career was the inspiration.

HAPPENED IN 1887

"I did my strikeout the year before," Casey said. "Mr. Thayer, who saw it, moved to California and wrote his poem, or at least he published it out there. I always thought he held it back because he thought it would hurt my feelings."

Casey recalled the details of the day.

"I was pitching for Philadelphia," he said, "and we were playing the Giants. It was 4-3 in the ninth inning, the bases were full and two were out when I came up to bat."

Excitement ran higher than usual because Philadelphia was in a race for the pennant and earlier in the season Casey had hit a homer to beat Boston.

Thayer's poem at this point reads:

"There was ease in Casey's manner as he Stepped into his place;
There was pride in Casey's bearing
And a smile on Casey's face.
And when, responding to the cheers
He lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt
'Twas Casey at the bat."

ONE, TWO, THREE

Casey thought for a moment.

"I guess," he said, "they were thinking of that hit against Boston. Anyhow, by George, try as I might, I didn't so much as touch that ball. He got me, one, two, three."

There was gloom in Philadelphia that night, gloom as deep as there ever was in the joyless Mudville.

Out in Silver Spring things were sort of that way today, for the Mighty Casey was sad—sadder, he said, than he'd been in a long, long time.

MEDICO-WELDERS DEFEAT MOOSE BY 5-1 SCORE

The Medico-Welders defeated the Moose 5-1 Thursday night at Kingsway park in an exhibition softball game. The proceeds were given to the Welders to help defray the cost of the trip to Dalroy this coming week-end for the senior men's provincial play-offs.

Each team used two pitchers. Cutler operated for three innings for the Moose, allowing six hits, while Zeaven struck out three, gave one walk and two hits in his three frames. Griffith had two strike-outs and issued one walk in four sessions and Durovecz whiffed one and allowed a pair of hits along with the same number of passes to first.

In the second inning the Welders found the chalk when Brock hit safely and scored on Griffith's double. In the third Klingspoon singled, went to second on O'Connor's safety and both scored on the error following Wismer's grounder to the pitcher. Vaughan then came through with another hit and Wismer scored.

In the fourth frame the Moose got their lone counter. Frew walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on Wheatfield's three-bagger.

The Medicos collected a single counter in the next inning on Klingspoon's safe bunt and two passed balls.

Klingspoon with two hits in the same number of times at bat and Wheatfield and Griffith each with two in three were the leading hitters in the game.

The Welders came through with two snappy doubles, one in the third and the other in the seventh.

Score by innings:

Moose	000 100 0—1	4	1
Welders	013 010 x—5	8	1

Zeaven, Cutler and Tougas; Griffith, Durovecz and Ball.

Steel Company's Workers Awarded Increase In Wages

OTTAWA, Aug. 23—Labor Minister Norman McLarty last night gave out findings of a board of conciliation and investigation which dealt with disputes between the Algoma Steel Corporation, Ltd., and three different categories of its employees.

A unanimous report was brought in by the board in respect to the corporation's dispute with employees in the Algoma Steel Workers Union.

The board recommended a general increase of 3½ cents an hour and proportionate increases in tonnage rates. Monthly employees receiving less than $125 a month should, in the opinion of the board, receive two cents an hour increase, and those in receipt of between $125 and $150 a month one cent.

THE PERFECT COMBINATION

WEATHER IN WEST IS IDEAL FOR HARVEST

Little Damage Reported After Light Frosts In Few Sections

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23.—Ideal ripening and harvesting weather is reported across the western prairies in the weekly summary of crop conditions from the agricultural department of the Canadian Pacific Railway,, only slight frosts, occurring in sections of northern Saskatchewan, north central and northern Alberta, are reported as having done but slight damage. Light scattered showers in Manitoba and some parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta have interferred little with harvesting operations.

Manitoba reports wheat 90 per cent harvested with oats and barley 83 per cent, both slightly lower than at the same time last year.

In Saskatchewan wheat cutting is general with approximately 41 per cent completed. Considerable average of oats and barley has also been cut with the south eastern and east central sections farthest ahead.

Cutting is now general in Alberta except in the north central districts and harvesting of oats and barley is underway in many places.

In the Peace River district of the western province light frosts have done little damage and cutting has begun in practically all sections and will be general early next week. From 20 to 30 per cent of wheat is harvested at Falher and Berwyn and is expected to average 27 bushels to the acre. Oats will likely be 54 bushels and barley 32.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 23.—Jamaica Thursday sent another £5,000 (about $22,250) to Britain to be applied for the purchase of bombers. The money, raised by public subscription, brings to £35,000 (about $155,750) the total collected here and sent to the mother country.

ORDER PLACED IN CANADA FOR GIANT PLANES

By J. F. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 23—Orders were reported last night to have been placed in Canada for some of Britain's newly - developed "battleships of the air"—bombers and fighters which will add appreciably to the superiority of the Royal Air Force over the enemy.

Performance, design, armament and armor are a secret but the planes were described as "gigantic in size" and have extra long range.

They are reported to be faster and more manoeuvrable than the present types in service and are almost impregnable to ordinary defence fire.

It also was disclosed Thursday that Britain now is using mass production methods in turning out training planes.

A track assembly line introduced in a British aircraft factory is being used for final stages of construction of the fast Miles-Master single-motored training plane.

LOST JEWELS ARE LOCATED BY R.C.M.P. DOG

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—A valuable pendant and brooch lost by Princess Juliana of the Netherlands while strolling around nearby MacKay Lake, were recovered Thursday by Royal Canadian Mounted Police. R.C.M.P. officials however, gave all the credit to one of their trained dogs, "Pilot," who uncovered the jewelry after following the tracks of the Princess through the woods a short distance from her suburban Rockcliffe home.

Start New Industry

COLOMBO, Ceylon — Negotiations are being conducted looking to the establishment of a tapioca flour industry. The main source of Ceylon's supply is the Federated Malay States.

AMERICAN AID SHIPMENT IS SENT BRITAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Money, medical supplies and hospital personnel went forth Thursday from United States relief agencies to aid Britain, in this way:

Mrs. Wales Latham, national president of Bundles for Britain, Inc., announced $10,000 worth of surgical equipment and supplies, sufficient to equip five emergency field hospitals, is being purchased immediately for shipment to Britain.

The British War Relief Society, Inc., cabled $4,000 to London to finance recreational activities for fliers of the Royal Air Force.

William V. C. Ruxton, president of the British-American Ambulance Corps, announced six ambulances had been shipped to Mombasa in British Kenya.

Six doctors, three nurses, a secretary and a medical artist, under leadership of Dr. Philip D. Wilson, sailed for England to establish the first unit of the American Hospital in Britain, Ltd., under auspices of the Allied Relief Fund, Inc.

Another Ship For Canadian Navy Slides Into Water

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 23.—Latest addition to the Royal Canadian Navy a corvette slid down the ways at this Canadian port Thursday to the accompanying shriek of welcoming whistles.

Mrs. Grace Mayhew, wife of a member of parliament, christened the new naval unit as the blocks were knocked out to start the craft to the water.

Among the guests were high ranking officers of the army, navy and air force, members of parliament and the provincial legislature.

Hi Pat Wins Pace

PUBLISHER'S INTERNMENT IS DEMANDED

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—City council Thursday left over until their next meeting a resolution submitted by J. M. Savignac, president of the Montreal civic executive, asking for the internment of John Bassett, president of the Gazette Publishing Company. The resolution claimed that Bassett should be interned because the Montreal Gazette published the anti-registration statement for which Mayor Camillien Houde was interned.

Savignac's resolution claimed "the same treatment and the same measure" should be applied to Bassett as to Houde because "according to the admission of the Gazette" the Houde statement was published and circulated by this paper on the 3rd of August and given to the Canadian Press.

The resolution went on to say that if the mayor's statement contravened the defence of Canada regulations, "the president of the paper who saw to it that it was published has committed an act illegal in the same degree, if not in a superior degree." (Calling of the next meeting of council rests with pro-Mayor E. Hamelin, who has not yet announced when the meeting will be held. There is usually a week between each morning.)

Many British Children Land In East Port

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 23.—A liner with a passenger list of more than 1,200 persons, including "several hundred" British children, reached this port today from the United Kingdom.

It was not known immediately whether the children aboard the big camouflaged vessel were government or privately-sponsored passengers. They were reported to be bound for homes in the United States as well as Canada.

There was little fanfare as the ship was pulled slowly into dock by a couple of tugs. Children and adults could be seen on the decks, watching the tugs warping the vessel in. A handful of officials were on the dockside.
